

Presidential candidates making last big fling

By The Associated Press
Presidential candidates made last-minute pitches today in three states for votes in the final primaries of the 30-state marathon leading to the party conventions.
The stakes were big with the primaries Tuesday in California, New Jersey and Ohio producing 540 Democratic delegate votes and 331 on the Republican side.
After fast-paced weekends, Democratic candidates Jimmy Carter, Morris K. Udall and Frank Church stumped in Ohio. California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was in New Jersey with Carter planning activity there today, too.

State poll picks Brown and Reagan . . . page 2
President Ford, running for the Republican nomination, was in Ohio today and his opponent, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, campaigned in his home state.
As the primary circuit, which began in February in New Hampshire, neared a close, Reagan picked up 35 new delegates in weekend state conventions — 15 in Louisiana, 17 in Virginia and 3 in Colorado. Ford picked up one in Virginia.

The changes gave Ford 806 delegates and Reagan 690 with 1,130 needed for nomination.
There was little change on the Democratic side with Minnesota giving 16 of its delegates selected Sunday to Sen. Hubert Humphrey and three were chosen uncommitted.
Humphrey said last week he may reassess his early stand against active campaigning for the nomination.
Among Democrats, Carter, the former Georgia governor, now has 909 delegates, Udall, the congressman from Arizona, 307.5, and 393.5 are uncommitted with 1,505 needed for the nomination.
Ford, in a television appearance Sunday, said he believes he is closing on Reagan in California. "We think there's an opportunity to win California," the President said.

California is a winner — take-all primary and the most recent California Poll shows Reagan the leader for the state's 167 delegates. Ford is favored to take a hefty portion of the 164 total delegates from New Jersey and Ohio.
Five of the Democratic presidential hopefuls appeared on ABC's "Issues and Answers" Sunday, but did little more than restate old positions and make optimistic predictions on Tuesday's primaries.
Udall, Brown and Church, a senator from Idaho, aimed their remarks at what they said is Carter's lack of specifics on the issues. And, each predicted he might emerge as the Democratic candidate should Carter be stopped in his drive for the nomination.
The other Democrat appearing was Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, whose campaigning has been limited by a lack of money.

More Idahoans flee as flooding spreads

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Flood waters continued to roll across southeastern Idaho today, forcing evacuations 50 miles from the site where the Teton Dam burst two days ago.
The official death toll stood at six, with 135 persons missing. Officials said many of the missing may just be out of touch with relatives. A breakdown in telephone communication and road travel hampered efforts to determine the status of the missing.
The names of the dead have not been released.

California ban on drug prices voided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today struck down a California law forbidding pharmacists from advertising the prices of prescription drugs.
It was the second time within weeks the court had taken such action. A previous ruling negated a similar law in Virginia on the ground that advertising is protected by the free speech guarantee of the First Amendment.
Today's decision upheld without comment a ruling of a three-judge panel in San Francisco last May that the California statute is unconstitutional.

Advertising of prescription drugs is permitted in 23 states. Eight state laws or private professional codes work against it in the other states.
A year ago, the Federal Trade Commission proposed new regulations that would invalidate either type of ban. A commission spokesman said today the FTC is pursuing the regulatory changes, even though the high court's action would appear to render any further action against state laws somewhat duplicative.
The FTC says that bars against drug advertising serve to stifle competition and keep prices up.
But the California State Board of Pharmacy, in its appeal of the lower court decision, said advertising would "produce an artificial and unhealthy demand" for some drugs.
Consumers who challenged the act replied that this wrongly "assumes the availability of physicians who can be pressured into prescribing unneeded medications."

The three-judge court held that the law violates the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.
In another decision last term, the court broadened the applicability of the freedom-of-the-press provision to advertising.
Consumer groups said the three-judge court's decision was correct under this ruling.

Ocean quake rattles Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A strong earthquake rocked central Mexico from coast to coast for more than a minute today, causing panic and traffic jams in the Mexican capital.
Police and other authorities said they had no immediate reports of casualties or the extent of damage.
The University of Mexico observatory reported the epicenter of the quake was 280 miles to the south, probably in the Pacific Ocean off Acapulco. It said the quake measured six on the open-ended Richter scale, an intensity which can cause severe damage in populated areas.
The quake was felt as far east as Veracruz, on the Gulf of Mexico.
In Mexico City, the tremor rocked skyscrapers and cracked dozens of windows and walls. Some old adobe buildings cracked or tumbled. Police had to answer at least three rescue calls for people trapped in elevators.

Two small fires were reported in the city, but they were quickly snuffed out.
Electric power was cut off in some southern sections of the city for about 15 minutes.
The electric cuts temporarily disrupted the traffic light system, causing some huge traffic jams.
Many factories and plants with sensitive equipment shut off their production lines while engineers checked out possible damage.
A spokesman at the U.S. National Earthquake Information Center at Golden, Colo., said the quake was computed there at 6.6 on the Richter Scale.
In the Richter scale, every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater. Some experts say the actual amount of energy released may be 30 times greater.
In populated areas, an earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 can cause moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 can be severe. A 7 reading is a "major earthquake, capable of heavy damage," and 8 is a "great" earthquake, capable of tremendous damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the Richter scale.

210 Freeway sniper hits motorist

A San Bernardino man was injured only slightly early Sunday when a .22-caliber bullet fired by a freeway sniper near San Dimas shattered his car's windshield and hit him in the forehead.
But the victim, Robin Denslow, 33, didn't know he had been shot until he went to Doctors Hospital in Montclair for treatment of facial cuts caused by flying glass from the windshield. Physicians cleansing the wounds found the bullet stuck in his forehead between his eyes. It was removed and Denslow was released.
He told sheriff's deputies he was southbound approaching the Via Verde overcrossing of the 210 Freeway at about 2 a.m. when the windshield shattered. He pulled off the freeway and was joined by another motorist, Steve Selberg, 26, of Hollywood, who said he had been shot at also.
The Sheriff's Department, which had received several other calls of a sniper on the freeway, sent approximately 25 deputies into the hilly area. The force included members of the Special Weapons and Tactics Team. They reported finding no sniper, but did find three spent .22-caliber cartridge cases on the overcrossing.

Valley elections
Candidates, issues crowd ballot

Asst. City Editor
Area voters Tuesday will select political party nominees for state and federal offices, choose Superior Court judges and decide local measures involving school financing, college board membership and a water district proposal.
But not all ballots will provide voters with a multiple choice of candidates for state and federal positions since some running are without party opposition.
Districts where political party nominees will be selected to run in the November general election include:
— 33rd Congressional District where three Democrats and one Republican seek party nominations. The Democrats are Dr. Philip Megdal, Norwalk, dentist; Merl T. Doty, Downey, educator; and Ted Snyder, Whittier, a community college administrator. Rep. Del Dlawson, Downey, the incumbent is without Republican opposition.
— 33rd State Senatorial District where three Democrats and four Republicans are candidates. The Democrats are Norwalk Mayor Cecil Green; Gerald Olivet, Whittier, governmental affairs advisor; and Santa Fe Springs Councilmember Betty Wilson.
The Republicans are Phil Ortiz, Downey, business executive; Andy Harrison, Whittier, tour bus driver; William Campbell, Assemblyman, 64th District; and Angel L. Soto, Cerritos, aircraft maintenance mechanic.

— 64th Assembly District where three Democrats and four Republicans seek party nomination. The Democrats are George Aames, Rowland Heights, attorney; Stan Carroll, Whittier, community college teacher; and James Consalves, La Mirada, a county supervisor's deputy.
The Republicans are Sue Ellen Blevins, Whittier, educational counselor; Councilman Wayne

Showdown war with Palestinians
Syria unleashes Beirut attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian forces launched a drive on Beirut today, pounding the hill resort of Sofar on the Damascus-Beirut highway with tanks, jets and artillery and bombing Palestinian positions in the capital.
The offensive exploded the Lebanese civil war into a showdown between Syria and the Palestinians.
Radio Beirut, controlled by the Moslems, said some of the jets were Syrian air force MIG21s and some were Lebanese air force Hawker-Hunters from the Riyak base in eastern Lebanon, which the Syrians occupied last week.
About 6,000 Syrian troops crossed into Lebanon last Tuesday in an effort to force an end to the 14-month civil war there. Until today they had been stopped about 20 miles east of Beirut, apparently hoping to avoid a showdown with Palestinian and leftist troops.
But today's drive escalated the war to a new level that threatened to alter Middle East alignments radically, with unforeseeable consequences on the search for peace in this war-weary region.
Deafening explosions shook the city, but there was no immediate word of casualties or damage.
Some rockets slammed down in the direction of southern Beirut, where guerrillas of the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine have been battling pro-Syrian guerrillas from the Saika organization.

The shelling forced closures of Beirut's airport, cutting the city's last lifeline to the outside world.
Associated Press newsmen Mohammed Salam saw jets strafing a Moslem area midway along the two-mile front line between the city's Moslem and Christian sectors.
Half-track vehicles of Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Army equipped with antiaircraft missiles were seen touring the Moslem sector of Beirut.
AP newsmen Edward Cody reported from Sofar, 16 miles from the capital, that fighter jets also flew cover for tanks pounding the hill resort in an advance on the road to Beirut. He said Syrian-controlled commandos blasted Palestinian refugee camps on the capital's edge from hillside rocket launchers to the south.
Palestinian officials said Syria rejected a cease-fire deal worked out by Libyan Premier Abdul Salam Jalloud and accepted by Lebanese leftists and their Palestinian allies.
The Syrian push followed a broad series of attacks by guerrillas and Moslem gunmen on Saika strongholds in Beirut and Sidon, 25 miles south.

Map shows where jet fighters strafed Beirut today.

Stars come out and shine for candidates

VISALIA (AP) — The 60-foot banner stretched from one end to the other of the Sons of Italy Hall in this Central Valley farming center.

It said, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington 1946, Mr. Reagan Goes to Washington 1976."

The campaign motorcade arrived, and the first person to appear was actor Jimmy Stewart, star of the 1946 motion picture.

His hair was greying and his walk slower, but it was the same stuttering, instantly recognizable voice that made him famous four decades ago.

Stewart waved to the cheering crowd, posed for pictures, signed autographs and warmed up the audience for his longtime friend — former actor and former governor of California, Ronald Reagan.

"I'm working for Ronald Reagan because he's my friend. But more than that, I'm working for Ronald Reagan because he is a man who is showing genuine concern for the security and well-being of the United States," Stewart said.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s turn came a few days later and about 150 miles to the south when the spotlight focused on a strikingly beautiful and glamorous actress, Candace Bergen.

Dressed in a cream-colored suit, Miss Bergen walked slowly to the microphone and said in a low, throaty voice, "I'm responding to Jerry Brown, and you should respond to Jerry Brown, and together we will elect him president."

It is election time in California, where the stars come out and shine for the candidates.

Politicians for decades have solicited support of motion picture stars and other celebrities. But nowhere is it done so much as in California, where many of the stars live and where many have personal friendships with politicians.

President Ford is introduced at a fund-raising dinner by Cary Grant. Glenn Ford telephones voters from the Ford headquarters in Los Angeles as cameras record the event for the evening news.

Zsa Zsa and Eva Gabor and Charlton Heston are on the Ford team, too, but not out on the campaign trail.

California politics this year involves some estranged bedfellows. Sonny Bono is stumping for Ford. Greg Allman, the singer Cher Bono married after her divorce from Sonny, is giving concerts and making appearances for Jimmy Carter.

George Peppard is another Carter regular.

Reagan, who starred in 51 movies over a 20-year Hollywood career, has the largest stable of stars to trot out in this campaign — all personal friends.

One day it is John Wayne on the podium, introducing, "Mr. President, Ronald Reagan." Another day it is Andy Devine, Cesar Romero, Robert Stack, Ken Curtis, Lloyd Nolan, or one of many others.

Pat Boone is a Reagan delegate. So is Efrem Zimbalist Jr.

Reagan uses Hollywood friends, especially Stewart, but he does it cautiously. He refers to his acting days with pride, and feels they are an asset. But he doesn't overdo it, and he rarely takes more than one star along at a time.

And Reagan balances his old Hollywood glamor with talk about his eight years administrative experience as governor.

Brown, a 38-year-old bachelor, dated some of the stars, but not Miss Bergen, in pre-gubernatorial days. One of his favorite hangouts for years was — and still is — a small Mexican restaurant directly behind Paramount Studios.

Now many of those friends are helping him.

Singers Linda Ronstadt, who did date Brown once, and Helen Reddy are giving concerts for Brown. So are rock groups "Chicago" and "The Eagles," and "Nashville" stars Ronnie Blakely and Keith Carradine, often with Warren Beatty or Jack Lemmon as emcee.

Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's California campaign manager, says celebrities are good for a campaign. "They help bring out crowds. They are also good as surrogate speakers."

There is also a Hollywood flavor to California's U.S. Senate election this year.

Tom Hayden, activist husband of actress Jane Fonda, is running a strong race for U.S. Senate in the Democratic primary against incumbent John Tunney.

On the Republican side of that race, Wayne, Stewart and Heston all are helping Congressman Alphonzo Bell, whose wife is former actress Marian McCargo.

Tunney, the son of the former world heavyweight boxing champion, won the Senate seat four years ago by defeating former actor George Murphy with the help of stars such as Henry Fonda.

This year, Fonda is campaigning for his son-in-law. Last week, Fonda and comedian Groucho Marx walked with Hayden from door to door in a Los Angeles suburb while Miss Fonda campaigned 400 miles to the north.

Miss Fonda is not the only Hollywood star with a family interest in politics this year.

Jack Albertson, comedy costar of the "Chico and the Man" television series, is telling Los Angeles audiences an old Henny Youngman joke: "Take my wife, please!" His wife, Wally, a longtime Democratic party worker, is a candidate for Congress in the Beverly Hills area.

State poll picks Brown and Reagan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Poll released today predicts that two homebred politicians, Ronald Reagan and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., will win Tuesday's California presidential primaries.

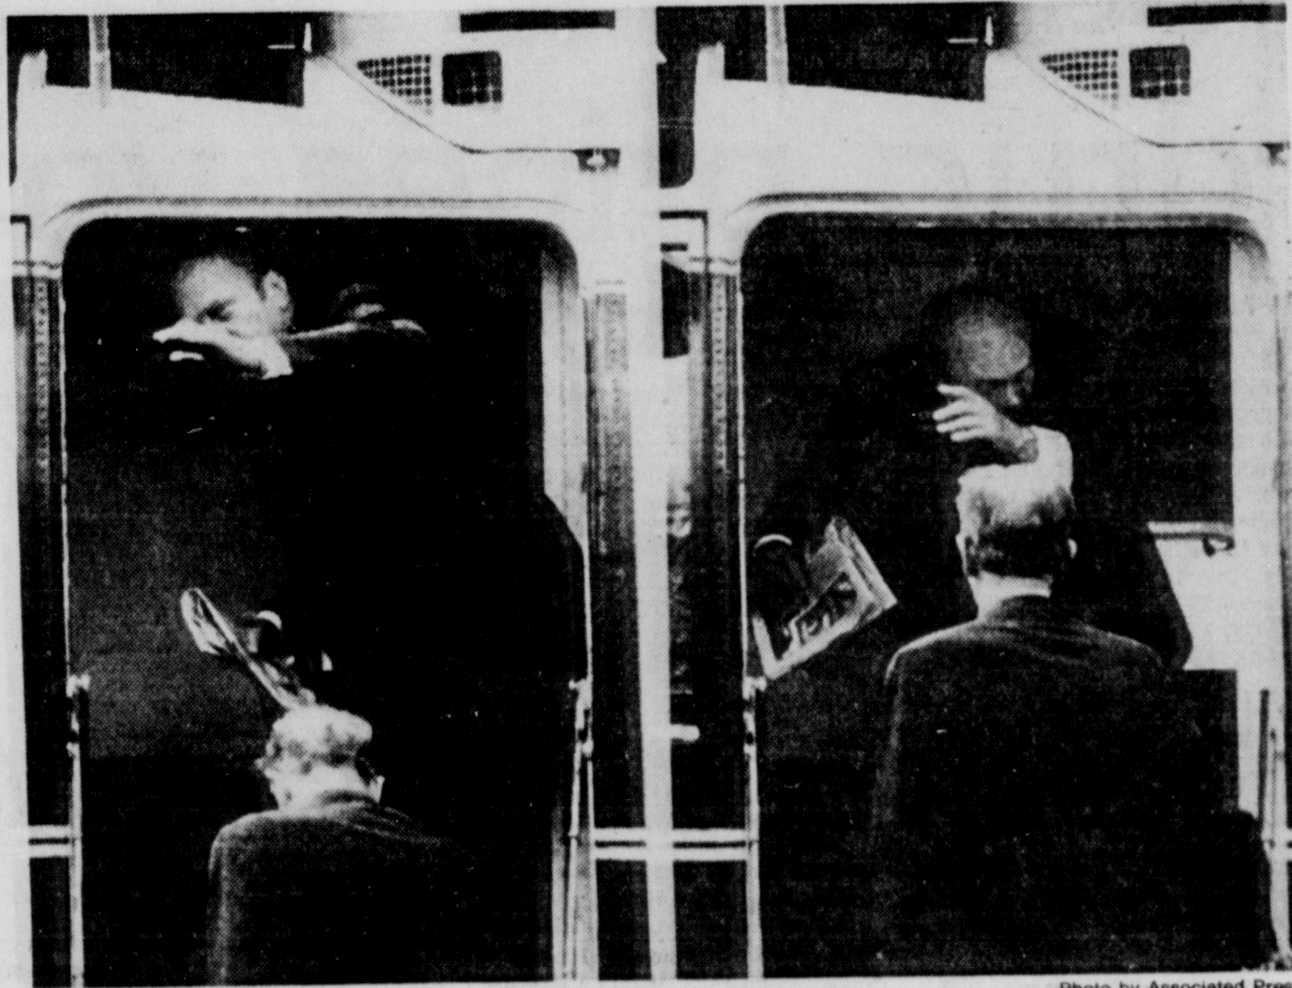

In a survey conducted late last week of 1,077 persons who said they planned to vote in Tuesday's election, the poll reported that Republicans favored Reagan over President Ford by 17 percentage points, and Democrats favored Brown over former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter by a better than 2-1 margin.

Reagan, a former California governor, holds a 52 per cent to 35 per cent lead over Ford with 13 per cent undecided. But Reagan's edge is down from the 56 per cent to 32 per cent edge he held in the poll taken May 31-June 2. The pollsters said a final media blitz by the President could further narrow the gap.

Brown, meanwhile, holds a lead of 54 per cent to 20 per cent for Carter. Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace combine for another 16 per cent, with 10 per cent undecided.

A total of 619 Democrats, 376 Republicans and 83 independents were polled last Thursday through Saturday. The sample is weighted with more Democrats because they outnumber registered Republicans in this state by a 3-2 margin.

In the U.S. Senate race, the poll said incumbent Sen. John Tunney holds a slim and dwindling lead over Tom Hayden, a former radical and student activist who is seeking the Democratic nomination. It said Robert Finch, the former secretary of health, education and welfare, and S. I. Hayakawa, a former college president who gained prominence for his tough-minded stand against student protesters, are deadlocked in the GOP race with Rep. Alphonzo Bell of Los Angeles close behind.

State Demo delegate selection altered

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation changing the way delegates are apportioned to candidates in the California Democratic presidential primary has been signed into law.

The bill by Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, would bar any candidate receiving less than 10 per cent of the statewide vote from receiving any delegates. It will apply to delegates selected after next Tuesday's election.

But it was not immediately clear if the change would affect the delegate total of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who has been the runaway frontrunner in recent polls.

Brown's office announced the signing Saturday.

Seventy of the 280 Democratic presidential delegates are affected by the law. But it does not affect the way the first 210 Democratic delegates are selected, based on candidates' showings in individual congressional districts.

The 70 delegates in question are to be apportioned to candidates on the basis of the statewide popular vote. Previous law would have apportioned them according to their showings in individual congressional districts.

Previously, if candidate "X" got 55 per cent of the statewide vote but only 35 per cent of the 210 delegates chosen on the basis of showing in congressional districts, he would have been allotted 35 per cent of the remaining 70 delegates.

Under the Berman bill, he would receive 55 per cent of the remaining 70 delegates.

The new law will probably give slightly more delegates to candidates who finish third or lower, and slightly fewer delegates to the frontrunners.

It is AB 4514.

Oil research vessel sinks off coast

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A wooden oil research vessel has sunk off the San Diego coast after being destroyed by flames from an engine room fire which engulfed a fuel tank, the Coast Guard said.

Coast Guard Chief Wally Ma-

cIndoe said the Aquasition sank Sunday night while it was still burning about 30 miles northwest of San Diego. The fuel tank did not explode.

Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. Keith Barker said 22 crew members aboard the research vessel were safely evacuated with the aid of crew members from the USS Leahy, a Navy missile carrier. He said personnel aboard the carrier had spotted smoke and offered aid.

He said the fire broke out in the Aquasition's engine room early Sunday. Crew members from several vessels battled the flames for about five hours and at one point thought they had the fire under control.

But then, Barker said, the blaze reached the Aquasition's 6,000-gallon fuel tank, which burst into flame.

Last big fling...

In California, the Republican battle focused on a controversy over television commercials.

The Ford campaign ads charge that Reagan, as president, could be a threat to start a war. Ford said he was standing by the ads and Reagan charged that the commercials represent tactics that could destroy the Republican party.

Reagan, at the Sacramento Press Club on Wednesday, was asked what the United States should do to prevent bloodshed in Rhodesia, where a white minority rules a black majority.

Reagan said: "They are fighting those guerillas from across the border, and doing so very well. But whether it would be enough to make simply a show of strength, the promise that we would, or whether you would have to go in with occupation forces or not, I don't know that."

On Thursday Reagan stressed his proposals were aimed at achieving an "orderly transition to (black) majority rule" in that white-ruled nation and that the United States must serve as mediator.

Reagan said Sunday that of the Ford commercials: "I thought the Republicans had learned their lesson. This type of tactic is terribly divisive. It threatened once before to destroy our party. This time it might."

A Reagan campaign official said the candidate was referring to the attack launched against Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater in his bid for the presidency in 1964. He noted Goldwater had been accused of having a potential to start a nuclear war.

On the Democratic side, Carter sought the Jewish vote in New Jersey and Udall spoke about history in other Sunday campaigning.

In an address to a predominantly Jewish crowd of 500 persons at Elizabeth, N.J., Sunday, Carter said again that he supported Israeli statehood.

Afterward Carter acknowledged in reply to a question that weak support for his candidacy among Jewish voters has been a problem for him.

He said his own strong Baptist faith has been troublesome to some voters "particularly among Jewish voters for whom it has been a cause of some concern." He told the crowd, "Of all the people in this world who should have the least prejudice in matters of religion, it's you. I worship the same God you do."

New Jersey, the eighth largest state in population with about 7.5 million, is about 7 per cent Jewish.

At Mentor, Ohio, Udall visited the home of James A. Garfield to emulate the front porch campaign made famous by the former president from Ohio in 1884.

Although Garfield, the 20th president, was a Republican, Udall, said that he and Garfield have some things in common.

"He (Garfield) did not get nominated on the first ballot and I'm not going to be nominated on the first ballot ... but one of the ballots after the first," Udall said.

PAYING RESPECTS

Who should pay for U.S. mail service?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should taxpayers help pay for the nation's mail service or should the entire cost be borne by users of the mail?

This fundamental question of how mail service should be financed has been asked almost since the founding of the country. Now, six years after Congress thought it had finally answered it, the same question is being debated again.

Hanging in the balance, postal officials say, is the level of mail service that the country will receive. Without new appropriations of tax money, service reductions are inevitable, they say.

Others, including President Ford, are unconvinced. They say the Postal Service should be more efficient in order to reach the goal set in 1970: the mail service should be paid for by those who use it.

The debate is expected to pick up this week when the Senate Post Office Committee takes up a bill to pump large new taxpayer subsidies into the Postal Service.

Chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., has trimmed his original proposal to double the $1.5 billion annual appropriation for three years. He now is trying to get a total of $2 billion over a two-year period.

Taxpayers have a "public, moral responsibility" to pick up the tab for recent postal deficits that were "almost entirely created by inflation," McGee says.

Ford has said recently, "It is premature to conclude that an increased taxpayer subsidy is the only answer.... I am not convinced at this time that the independent Postal Service is an unworkable concept."

Ford and McGee were united in 1970 in urging passage of the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970. This law, passed by wide majorities in Congress, changed the policy on postal financing.

It abolished the old Post Office Department and replaced it with a new corporate-style Postal Service that had the goal of eliminating all taxpayer subsidies.

Until then, the Post Office had not been expected to break even and congressional appropriations had made up for the deficits.

Congress first debated the issue of postal financing shortly after the Constitution was adopted. One of the first important laws passed by Congress established in 1792 the goal of a self-supporting Post Office.

However, in 1851 Congress agreed to finance postal deficits in the hope that this would result in better service. When Congress voted in 1970 to establish the new Postal Service, it hoped a new business-like management could eliminate deficits and the need for taxpayer support. It established the goal of having service paid for completely by mail users by 1984.

But the new agency has been a financial failure, with deficits increasing instead of decreasing. The deficit totaled $1.6 billion in the Postal Service's first four years and the agency expects to lose nearly that much in the current fiscal year alone.

Because of the losses, large users of the mail, the postal unions and the chairmen of the post office committees in Congress have joined Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar in calling for higher subsidies.

Bailar has hinted that unless the public is willing to subsidize mail service through tax funds, the days of six-day-per-week, door-to-door mail delivery may be numbered.

An opponent of higher subsidies, Rep. Edward J. Derwinski, R-Ill., says they "would represent another raid on the U.S. Treasury."

"This is not the time to be misleading the mail-using public by suggesting that a subsidy is a painless way of solving multiple problems confronting the Postal Service," says Derwinski, ranking Republican on the House Post Office Committee.

TIME FOR HONORS

P.C. commencement speaker warns of peacetime armies

A warning that the maintenance of a large standing army in time of peace could lead to corruption and the eventual suppression of American liberties was expressed Sunday by historian Page Smith, the main speaker at Pomona College's 83rd annual commencement ceremonies.

Commenting on the nature of the American Revolution, Smith observed that the country is now "very far from the original values and principles of the Founding Fathers," and asserted the feeling that "I have been depressed and disappointed that in the Bicentennial year there's been so little attention paid, in my opinion, to what the founding fathers said, and what the nature of the Revolution really was."

More than 2,200 townspeople, faculty members, students and their friends and relatives heard Smith's message, entitled "A Commencement Address," in the first outdoor commencement program, held on the Marston Quad, in the modern history of Pomona College. Bridges Auditorium, the usual scene for commencement programs, is currently undergoing extensive repairs.

Receiving diplomas during the ceremonies were 278 graduates, 33 of whom completed their academic work earlier in the 1975-76 year. Two of the graduates received their degrees "summa cum laude" (with highest honors). They were Kristin Fossum, Claremont, and Jeffrey H. Kinrich, Studio City. Ten others received their degrees "magna cum laude" (with great honors), and 70 were "cum laude" (with honors).

During the program, David Alexander, president of Pomona College, announced the names of five faculty members who received Wig Distinguished Professorship Awards of $2,500 each for the superior quality of their teaching, concern for the personal and scholarly development of students, distinction in research and writing, and special services to the college and community.

The winners were Frederick Sonntag, professor of philosophy; Fred Krinsky, professor of government; Harry C. Mullikin, associate professor of mathematics; Leo J. Flynn, assistant professor of government, and James W. Armanage, assistant professor of religion.

Another feature of the program was the presentation of honorary degrees to Harvey H. Nininger, Sedona, Ariz., a 1917 alumnus of Pomona College who, at 89, is considered one of the world's foremost experts on meteors and meteorites, and Smith, professor emeritus at U.C. Santa Cruz.

Elsewhere in his commencement address, Smith also commented on what he called "an enormous amount of commercialization" during the Bicentennial, "but very little thoughtful attempt to really consider the Founders' views — to consider whether they're still relevant for our society."

Smith said that "one of the things that I have put a lot of emphasis on is their suspicion of large standing armies in time of peace." Declaring that the founding fathers were "very knowledgeable historians themselves, particularly the history of the ancient world — and they were convinced that every country, that every civilization that had come to have a large standing army in time of peace was a very central contributing factor to the decline of that civilization."

The founding fathers, he said, knew that armies in peacetime grew corrupt and that they were eventually "used to suppress the liberties of the people, and that a mercenary army, which we now have, becomes a threatening element in itself."

"A large standing army, at the beginning of a conflict, is always obsolete," Smith said, "because all we know about military history indicates that every new war is fought along different strategic and tactical lines than the last one; so that if you have a huge army trained in obsolete — what turned out to be obsolete — strategies or tactics, that's a great liability."

Private segregated schools get nod of approval from Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says parents should have the right to send their children to segregated private schools as long as the schools do not receive federal aid.

Ford said Sunday he supports integration and noted that his own children attended integrated schools, but said, "I think the individual ought to have a right to send his daughter or his son to a private school if he's willing to pay whatever the cost might be."

The President, asked on CBS' "Face the Nation" if he approved a private school's refusing to admit black students, replied, "Individuals have rights. I would hope they wouldn't, but individuals have a right where they're willing to make the choice themselves, and there are no taxpayer funds involved."

But "if they get federal aid," he said, "that's a totally different question and I certainly would not, under those circumstances, go along with segregated schools."

The President also reiterated that he plans to seek legislation soon to limit the amount of busing a federal court could order to desegregate schools.

"I believe that court-ordered forced busing to achieve racial balance is not the best way to necessarily protect individual rights on the one hand, or to achieve quality education on the other," he said.

The legislation that the Justice Department is drawing up would limit busing to areas "where the local school board, by its act, has violated the constitutional rights of individuals," Ford said. It would not "permit the court to go beyond the instances where the (students') rights have been violated."

In recent years, some suburbs have been included in desegregation plans because of segregation in inner-city areas.

Ford said his legislation "will minimize in many cases to a substantial degree the amount of court-ordered forced busing."

On other issues, Ford continued to criticize Ronald Reagan's foreign policy stands.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Ford said "guerrilla warfare would almost be inevitable" in Panama "if we were to break off (treaty) negotiations, which is the implication of my opponent's policies."

Ford also said he approved an ad used in his California campaign that implies Reagan might get the United States involved in a war in Rhodesia if he were President.

In the ads a voice says, "Remember, Gov. Reagan couldn't start a war. President Reagan could."

The Ford campaign began using the ads after Reagan said Wednesday the United States and Britain might act as mediators between Rhodesia's ruling white government and its black majority citizens.

— 65th Assembly District where two Republicans seek the office. They are Don Donnelly, Pomona, a fireman and member of the Pomona school board, and Clyde R. Stephens, quality control engineer and member of the Pomona Planning Commission.

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, a Democrat and the incumbent, has no party opposition.

Those offices where candidates have no political party opposition include:

— 26th Congressional District, Rep. John Rousselot, a Republican, incumbent, and George Donnelly, South Pasadena, Democratic write-in candidate.

— 35th Congressional District, Rep. Jim Lloyd, Democrat, incumbent, and Covina Mayor Louis Brutocao, Republican.

— 25th Senatorial District, state Sen. H. L. Richardson, Republican, now representing the 19th Senatorial District, and Ronald Barbatore, Democrat, West Covina. The district was recently reapportioned.

— 62nd Assembly District, Assemblyman William Lancaster, Republican, the incumbent, and Sandy Balonado, Democrat, Covina.

Los Angeles County residents will also choose Superior Court judges for six offices. These candidates are:

Office No. 1, Emil Gumpert, S. S. Schwartz, and Elana Sullivan. Office No. 2, Arthur Stanley Katz and Laurence Rittenband. Office No. 15, Aaron H. Stovitz and Elisabeth E. Zeigler. Office No. 28, Byron Y. Appleton, William P. Kennedy and Roberta Ralph. Office No. 37, Bonnie Lee Martin. Office No. 40, David J. Aisensohn, Nathan Axel and Robert M. Takasugi.

In San Bernardino County, voters will select a judge from five candidates. They are Paul R. Steinman, John R. Marcus, Edison P. McDaniels, Charles Bierschbach and Don Egan. A 50 per cent majority is required for a judge to win in the primary.

Diamond Bar area voters will decide on Measure CC, a $6.5 million bond issue for the Walnut Valley Water District to acquire the Diamond Bar Water Co.

Voters in the Chaffey College District will determine if the number of trustees should be increased from five to seven members. Voters in the Central School District in Cucamonga will decide on a $2.5 million bond issue and a $7.5 million state loan to build schools and obtain school sites.

Mt. Baldy area voters will decide if the school district should obtain a state loan to incorporate two previous state loans and a bond issue. The funds were used to build a new school. The state loan would be for an amount not to exceed $600,000.

A two-thirds majority is needed to pass the Central and Mt. Baldy measures.

Polling hours throughout the state are 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Brown meets First Lady

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. and First Lady Betty Ford shook hands Sunday as their campaign trails crossed at a hospital dedication in Los Angeles.

Brown, a Democratic candidate in Tuesday's California presidential primary election, welcomed Mrs. Ford to his home state.

Brown spoke at the dedication but left before the address by Mrs. Ford, whose husband is a candidate for the Republican nomination in Tuesday's GOP primary.

Helen Hayes honored

BOSTON (AP) — Actress Helen Hayes, first lady of the American theater, has been honored by more than 1,600 theatergoers and theater stars at the Shubert Theatre in Boston.

The Sunday night tribute also was to benefit the Massachusetts Center Repertory Company, a resident professional theater group that plans a 28-week season beginning next fall.

Stars who appeared on the stage included Colleen Dewhurst, Julie Harris, Anne Jackson, Rosemary Harris and Sylvia Sidney.

"It's been a night I shall never forget," Miss Hayes said from the stage at the end of the tribute. "I will always remember it with such gratitude and excitement."

Kennedy says no again

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has repeated his declaration that he won't run for president or vice president this year under any circumstances.

The Boston Globe also reported today that the Massachusetts Democrat is getting angry with being linked to a "stop-Carter" movement.

The Globe quoted Kennedy as denying any part in efforts to derail the Democratic presidential efforts of candidate former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

The report said Kennedy has complained to close associates that so-called insiders who have contended Kennedy was available for a convention draft have damaged him politically.

The senator contends these reports damage his credibility and reflect an image of indecisiveness.

Burton to get divorce

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Actor Richard Burton has arrived here to get a divorce from his actress wife, Elizabeth Taylor, the office of Tourism and Information says.

Burton, who arrived Sunday, was scheduled to return on Wednesday to Hollywood, where he is making a film. The announcement said he arrived with an unidentified woman.

Miss Taylor and Burton were first married in 1964 after a romance that began in Rome while they were filming "Cleopatra." They separated in 1973 and were divorced in June 1974 only to be reconciled last September and remarried in October during a trip in Africa.

Moon an arms maker

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Sun Myung Moon says 10 per cent of the production in his Korean tool factories consists of small weapons parts for the government of South Korea, Newsweek International says.

The magazine said Sunday this was the first time Moon, the evangelist whose Unification Church sponsored a rally at Yankee Stadium June 1, had admitted the arms production.

Moon has built an industrial conglomerate in Korea with sales of $15 million a year, turning out everything from heavy machinery to shotguns.

Moon's church has thrived under the South Korean regime of Park Chung Hee, which has been rough on other religious groups.

Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y., said recently the Internal Revenue Service is examining the tax-exempt status of his church.

Spotlight on area crime

Montclair man stabbed

A Montclair man was stabbed early Sunday, apparently by a member of a group which crashed a baptismal party at 1056 E. Phillips Blvd., in Pomona.

The victim, Vincent L. Hicks, 24, was stabbed in the right side and was taken to County-USC Medical Center where he was under treatment for a collapsed lung and other complications.

Police reported that Hicks was attending a party given by a relative when the outsiders entered and began dancing. In the confrontation which followed, Hicks was stabbed and his wife, Ramona, was beaten before the group, numbering about 25 to 30 members, fled.

The party was for Hicks' 3-year-old daughter, Monique.

Police later booked two suspects in connection with the stabbing. The pair, Ronald DeStefano, 18, Pomona, and Frank George Alvarez, 21, Pomona, were stopped in a car and arrested by officers who said their clothing carried blood stains.

Family robbed

A Yucaipa family was robbed late Sunday night when they stopped for ice cream at the Howard Johnson's restaurant in Claremont at 701 S. Indian Hill Blvd.

Lowell E. Wheeler, 53, said he and his wife, Florence, 52, had parked on the parking lot and gone to the rear of their camper to let their sons out when two armed men confronted them and demanded their money.

While one man held a pistol pointed at the Wheelers, the other held the sons at bay inside the camper with a rifle.

When Mrs. Wheeler refused to surrender her purse, one of the robbers ripped it off her shoulder, throwing her to the ground. After obtaining Wheeler's wallet the pair fled to a car nearby and sped away westbound in San Jose Avenue.

The leader was described as black, 17 to 19 years old, 6 feet tall weighing 145 pounds. He wore a dark coat, felt hat and dark trousers.

Cars shot at Someone fired two shots at passing cars in front of a drive-in restaurant at Francis and Central avenues in CHINO, police said.

Officers said a male Latin, about 19 years old, fired the shots from a .32 or .38 snub-nosed revolver at the Instant Burger restaurant late Saturday night. Police were searching for a gold 1969 Chevrolet Malibu.

Restaurant fight

CHINO police broke up a fight involving about eight persons who were causing a disturbance in the parking lot of a restaurant on Central Avenue early Sunday.

Officers booked Martha Varela for obstructing an officer and on an intoxication charge, in front of Alphy's Restaurant just south of the Pomona Freeway.

The group involved in the fracas had been asked to leave the restaurant, officers explained.

Retirees receiving jobless benefits target of senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Americans would no longer be able to draw full unemployment benefits worth an estimated $71 million on top of their pensions from private businesses if an Oklahoma senator has his way.

Sen. Dewey Bartlett, a Republican, says he will introduce a bill today that would cut a dollar out of a retiree's jobless pay for each dollar he receives in pension.

"Providing these funds to retirees is contrary to the purpose of unemployment compensation and is of even greater concern because of the drain that has been placed on unemployment compensation funds during the recession of the last several years," he said in a statement prepared for release with the bill's introduction.

The $19 billion a year jobless pay system is now $8.5 billion in the red.

The bill is a companion to one he introduced

The AP analysis found that the retirees from federal, state and local governments drew an estimated $116.5 million in jobless pay, while the private pensioners drew an estimated $71.1 million.

Actually, Bartlett's bill would simply reduce the federal funding of unemployment benefits for pensioners on a dollar-for-dollar basis. A state would be able, if it chose, to pick up all the costs of giving pensioners full benefits.

A retiree may legally qualify for the benefits if the pensioner is "forced" to retire and says he or she is actively seeking work. A forced retirement could be based on a mandatory retirement age or because the employee was forced to quit but allowed to retire due to long service.

The AP analysis was based on the monthly census survey of 45,000 households. The same surveys are used by the Labor Department to compute the national unemployment figures for each month.

As with every survey, the actual totals could vary from what would be found in a tally of every American.

For the error due solely to chance, there is a statistical possibility that the over-all total of pensioners drawing unemployment could range from 116,000 to 206,000. However, the most probable total is 161,000, using the Census Bureau methods to analyze the survey.

War of 1812

The War of 1812, coming 30 years after the United States had achieved independence from Great Britain, had three major causes: 1) British warships blockading Napoleonic France seized American trading ships; 2) Britain, refusing to recognize naturalized American sailors, seized and impressed thousands into British service; 3) Britain armed Indians who raided the U.S. western borders.

U.S. fears about Soviets cited for CIA covert operations

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fears about the Soviet Union were the main reason that the CIA began emphasizing clandestine operations soon after it was created in 1947, a Senate staff report concludes.

"Although the agency was established primarily for the purpose of providing intelligence analysis to senior policymakers, within three years clandestine operations became and continued to be the agency's pre-eminent activity," said the staff report released Sunday by the Senate intelligence committee.

"The single most important factor in the transformation was policymakers' perception of the Soviet Union as a worldwide threat to United States security."

The emphasis on covert operations, encouraged by U.S. presidents, resulted in extreme secrecy that allowed such abuses as assassination plots against foreign leaders and drug tests on unsuspecting human guinea pigs to occur, the report said.

The CIA was created in part to coordinate intelligence from other government intelligence agencies. Instead, the 107-page history found, the CIA became "a competing producer of current intelligence and a covert operational instrument in the American cold war offensive."

The report charged the agency "responded to rather than anticipated the force of change" over the past three decades, and "accumulated functions rather than redefining them."

An "ethos of secrecy" pervaded the covert operations branch, which functioned apart from the rest of the CIA and without the normal review procedures, the history related. Scrutiny by Congress "was more perfunctory than rigorous," it said.

The report blamed this lack of control for the "previous excesses of drug testing, assassination planning and (illegal) domestic activities" by the covert operations branch.

It noted that with the exception of a brief period under James Schlesinger, "the agency has never been directed by a trained analyst." Most of its directors, including the late Allen Dulles, came from the cover operations branch.

Dulles, CIA director from 1953 to 1961 and a trusted adviser to President Eisenhower, "was absorbed in the day-to-day details of covert operations," the report said. His brother, John Foster Dulles, was then Secretary of State.

"Dulles' personal influence and the fact of his brothers' position lent enormous weight to any proposal that originated within the agency," the report said. In addition, early "successes" such as the overthrow of leftist governments in Iran and Guatemala inspired confidence in the CIA, according to the report.

Covert operations have been declining in recent years both because of détente with the Soviet Union and because of exposure of the operations by the media, the report said.

Almanac

Today In History
Today is Monday, June 7, the 159th day of 1976. There are 207 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1654, the coronation of Louis the 14th as King of France took place at Rheims.

On this date:
In 1769, Daniel Boone began his exploration of the Kentucky wilderness.

In 1862, the United States and Britain signed a treaty for suppression of the slave trade.

In 1864, President Abraham Lincoln was renominated by a Republican convention in Baltimore.

In 1940, in World War Two, organized resistance against German invaders ended in Norway.

In 1967, in the Middle East Six-Day War, Israeli forces driving into Egypt reached the banks of the Suez Canal.

Ten years ago: Seventy-three deaths were reported after 30 inches of rain flooded the Central American city of Rafael, Honduras.

Five years ago: A million people were tied up in traffic jams in the New York City area as drawbridges were locked open by a surprise strike by bridge operators for pension improvements.

One year ago: The United States withdrew its last combat aircraft based on the Nationalist Chinese island of Taiwan.

Today's birthdays: Singer Tom Jones is 36 years old. Poet Gwendolyn Brooks is 59. Thought for today: Never tell the truth to people who are not worthy of it — Mark Twain, American humorist, 1835-1910.

Bicentennial footnote: Two-hundred years ago today, history was made at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia as Richard Henry Lee of Virginia introduced three resolutions calling for total American independence from Britain.

'Just Another Dish' Valued at $1750.00.

NORTHBROOK, Ill.—A major art exchange here reports that a man who found several "dishes" in his attic was amazed to learn that one was valued at $1750.00.

The exchange says that, while this price is unusually high, exceptional collector's plates have been appreciating quickly on the market.

To aid investors, the exchange offers a free report on what to look for, when to buy, what to pay and much more, including opportunities in promising plates still at low prices.

To get your free report with no obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code to the Bradford Exchange, 17220 Bradford Place, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. To be sure of receiving your free copy, please mail your request before June 19, 1976. Adv.

RAPID TRANSIT

Finally, a system that covers the county

It's up to you, now!

The rapid transit system Los Angeles needs is on the ballot June 8th, as two propositions: R and T. You can vote for them, and get started building an alternate to the freeways. Or you can sentence yourself to more freeway congestion that will get worse every year.

The Sunset Coast Line

Propositions R and T will finance the building and operation of a high-speed transit system to be called the Sunset Coast Line. It will cover 232 miles, 44 separate cities directly, and 80 percent of the homes in the county. And the lines will go where the people already have shown they want to go: Santa Monica, Long Beach and San Pedro, downtown L.A., the San Fernando and San Gabriel Valleys, the Airport, Pasadena, Pomona, Downey—in short, the Sunset Coast Line will tie together all the county's major population, recreation and work centers. It's the transit system Los Angeles needs.

End freeway congestion

This rapid transit plan is the best way to keep Los Angeles County's excellent freeway system flowing freely all the time. Right now, rush hour and weekend congestion has reached the point where quick fixes like Diamond Lanes and on-ramp metering are making matters worse, not better.

In fact, there is only so much we can ask our freeways to do. We must start now building the freeway alternate Los Angeles needs for the future.

Saving the land

One of the most exciting parts of the Sunset Coast Line plan is that it uses the existing freeway system as the base. The transit system will be built on, alongside, and over freeways, flood control channels and other land already publicly owned, so no massive land-buying is needed. That saves money and will reduce negative environmental impact on our communities. (And engineers agree that even during construction no freeway lanes will have to be removed.)

Paying as we go

There's no mortgage with R and T. Though it will be one of the biggest construction jobs ever started, and though it will create tens of thousands of jobs, it's entirely pay as we go. There's no bonding, and no big interest payment to soak up tax dollars. Building the Sunset Coast Line will be paid for with a one-cent increase in the sales tax. That's really what Propositions R and T are all about. Each in a one-half cent increase; one is for capital costs only, and the other is for some capital costs and for operations.

What it costs

There are dozens of ways to look at the cost, which clearly is substantial. One way is that the cost will be $283 million a year. Another is that construction over the next twenty years will cost just under $6 billion, in 1976 dollars. Inflation could double that figure, but the one cent sales tax escalates along with inflation. But perhaps the most meaningful way to look at the cost is what it will mean to each family. On that basis, the cost turns out to be around $40 per year for an average family. About 10¢ per day for an average income family of four. Ten cents a day.

10¢/day per family

The best transit plan ever

Millions of dollars and engineering man-hours have gone into transit studies of one kind or another over the past thirty years. But no study has received as much scrutiny, then support, as has the Sunset Coast Line.

Respected urban and financial consultants, urban planners and citizen groups have widely spoken in favor of the system you'll authorize by voting now for R and T. Such groups as the Sierra Club; Women For, County Federation of Labor, League of Women Voters, People's Lobby, and the American Institute of Architects have all come out in favor of this plan.

There are groups opposing it. Highway interests, generally, who want Los Angeles to stay locked into a cumbersome and expensive bus system, or into an increasingly crowded freeway-only system that just can't do the whole job.

No lanes will be removed from freeways to build the Sunset Coast Line.

The bottom line

The question of transit boils down to this: Are we willing to pay an extra penny on the sales tax for the best-planned, best-financed, best-designed system ever proposed?

Or do we want to sit back and wait for things to get worse? Building a good transit system will never cost less than right now.

That's why the Citizens' Committee for Rapid Transit is paying for this ad. We want you to have the facts. Because we know that when you do have the facts, you'll vote Yes for Propositions R and T for Rapid Transit on June 8th.

Doctors Prove You Can Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Inflammation. Relieve Pain And Itch Too. Gives prompt temporary relief from hemorrhoidal pain and itch in many cases.

Doctors have found a most effective medication that actually helps shrink painful swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. In many cases, the first applications give prompt relief for hours from such pain and burning itching.

Tests by doctors on hundreds upon hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. The medication the doctors used was Preparation H—the same Preparation H you can get without a prescription. Ointment or suppositories.

Gray revolution puts new pressure on U.S. to reconsider future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Get ready for a shock, America: You're getting a little older every day. Soon you will need more hospital units for the elderly, more doctors and nurses trained to care for them.

You will be under pressure to change your Social Security and pension systems, to reconsider the way you force people to retire.

Your swelling population of old people will press you increasingly to create new jobs for them, both private enterprise and government programs that draw on the skills of retired professionals.

They will seek government programs to retrain them for new jobs and will be banging increasingly on the doors of your colleges and universities, even as the number of traditional college-age youth drops off.

These are no idle predictions. They are based on headcounts of people already born, plus predictions in present trends in births and deaths.

Today there are 1.600 million Americans over 65 than there were yesterday. Tomorrow the number will grow again, and by the year 2020 — when the post-World War II baby boom crop passes age 65 — there will be an estimated 43 million older Americans, almost twice as many as there are now.

About one in 10 Americans is over 65 today. But if young people continue their present taste for late marriage and small families, the year 2020 will see at least one in six Americans over 65. If advanced medical techniques conquer such killers as cancer, heart attack and strokes, the ratio could reach one in five.

And because women probably will continue to live longer than men, the 65 and older population of the future will be largely female.

Strains on the Social Security system are among the most pressing problems created by this "gray revolution."

Under the present system, benefits to retired people are paid from the payroll taxes of those presently in the work force. That means that today's young and middle-aged are putting money aside, not for their own retirement, but for those now retired.

But who will pay the retirement benefits of the baby boom generation?

Chances are it will still be the young and middle-aged, but it may cost them twice as much as it does now. The Social Security Administration estimates that in the year 2020, there will be 2.2 persons working for every one drawing retirement benefits. That compares to 3.2 workers for every beneficiary today.

Last year the administration estimated that by 2025, each worker may have to contribute 10.2 per cent of his salary to Social Security, compared to the 5.4 per cent he throws in today. Under present law, the employer contributes the same amount to the system.

Next: Living on Social Security in 1976.

Such a move is likely to be unpopular with the working force. But political pressure from pensioners, already strong, will increase as their numbers grow.

Such conflicting pressures may increasingly pit the generations against each other, said Dr. Robert N. Butler. His examination of the status of today's elderly is outlined in his recently published Pulitzer Prize-winning book, "Why Survive? Being Old in America."

Butler, who was recently appointed the first head of the new National Institute on Aging within the National Institutes of Health, advocates having the federal government contribute to the Social Security system, something that has not been done in the past. This would have the advantage of taking relatively more money from people of higher income than is now the case, but would still be taxing the productive sector of society to pay the pensions of the retired.

A more fundamental change, Butler suggests, would be to find ways for older people to remain longer in the work force.

"What we are studying here," Butler said, "is not just older people the way they are now, but older people as they can become. We have to integrate them into the work force and keep them younger."

Besides older people have more medical problems than the population as a whole, more facilities will be needed to care for the growing aging population, argues Dr. George Maddox, director of the Duke University Center for the Aging in Durham, N.C.

"We have contrived a system of medicine that does magnificent things for terrible problems but doesn't deal with chronic illness," Maddox said. "We require pitifully low standards for nursing homes ... The American medical system is geared to acute and specialty medicine, and the biggest problems of old people aren't characterized that way. We have no cleverness to deal with the medical problems of late life."

Besides changes in how it administers medical care to the elderly, the country will have to consider what kinds of housing its old people will live in, whether there will be more planned towns or if an effort will be made to integrate the elderly more into the community. There may be a demand for more one-level apartments.

Experts on the elderly say communities should draw more on the professional skills of retired people, such as having retired lawyers offer legal services to the aging, retired doctors and nurses offer care in the home and retired teachers give courses in the schools.

Educators say that there will be more and more elderly signing up for courses in the colleges and universities, that a semester of French literature or a course in art history will become a recreational as well as a learning experience.

Mexico's first land-use policy near

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A law that opponents said was part of a government plan to put homeless peasants in the spare bedrooms of the rich takes effect this month, paving the way for Mexico's first national land-use policy.

The Human Settlements Law doesn't set policy. It is a guide for future regulations to check uncontrolled growth of urban centers, regulate the real estate market, provide basic services and reduce "sectoral and geographical imbalances."

One government leader noted that the law for the first time inserts the word "planning" in land-use policy in a nation where masses of poor crowd around the capital city without mass transit, water systems and other public services.

The new statute creates the machinery for national, state and municipal government controls on the use of land. The national government is to coordinate the program, but the state governments are empowered to do the planning and pass the laws to carry it out. However, each state plan must be approved by the national government before it can be put into operation.

When President Luis Echeverria first proposed the legislation, there was a storm of protest from private enterprise, especially city landlords and land speculators.

The final version approved by Congress removed much of the sting for those opponents.

Their complaints centered on the prospect of land expropriation and the president's proposal to give municipal officials authority to regulate land use. The critics said this would permit city hall to punish landholding political enemies and could encourage landlords to use bribery in the pursuit of quick profits.

Some private business groups were reported sending survey teams, posing as government agents, to tell homeowners they would be forced to provide room in their houses for peasants.

Echeverria accused opponents of the legislation of holding clandestine meetings in Monterrey, Mexico's second largest city and the traditional center of business opposition to the government.

The Monterrey businessmen admitted they had met, but they denied they did so in secret. They said they were only exercising their constitutional right to assemble and criticize the government.

The Congress transferred regulatory powers from municipal to state governments.

Language was added stating the law was not an attack on private property itself, and machinery was set up providing property owners the right of appeal.

The law as approved even includes a paragraph specifically stating that peasants won't be lodged in the homes of the rich.

The Congress approved an Interior and Housing Commission report attached to the bill saying expropriations will be authorized only through existing constitutional amendments.

After the House of Deputies and the Senate removed some of the most controversial parts of the legislation, it breezed through a special legislative session. Echeverria signed it last month, and it becomes law June 24.

Mexico City and other major urban centers are growing at breakneck speed with little or no coordinated planning of the expansion. Factories are built beside residences. Suburbanites ration water. Major sections of the city are without mass transportation. Squatters are settled in dry gulches on the edge of the metropolis without water, lights and other services.

An estimated 10,000 cows infected with tuberculosis are tethered beside shanties inside the city limits.

Meanwhile, thousands of job-hungry peasants are moving into Mexico City every day, looking for work and housing that isn't there. The city's population has swollen from 10 million to 14 million in five years.

The problem is compounded by one of the world's largest rates of population increase, 3.7 per cent annually. There are 62 million Mexicans now, and government analysts predict that the population, will double every 20 years.

It's about time insurance companies paid the same taxes as everyone else.

There ought to be a law that says insurance companies pay the same kind of taxes as every other business. But there isn't.

California insurance companies pay state taxes at more than twice the rate most California companies pay.

Other companies are taxed on net profit after deduction of all business expenses. Because of an outdated law, insurance companies pay a special tax on premiums paid by policyholders and have only one deduction—the property tax they pay on one principal office in the state.

Insurance company tax reform is long overdue. But Proposition Six isn't the answer. It simply eliminates the only tax deduction insurance companies have now, and it adds $20 million in taxes.

Now if you're not heartbroken by the unfairness of insurance companies paying more taxes than other companies, give this a thought:

Guess who ends up paying for tax increases on any business. Right. You do.

So vote no on Six. It's not fair to you or anyone else. It's time the politicians got to work on real insurance tax reform.

Proposition Six isn't the answer. It's not even the right question.

Six isn't the answer.

Economic report one of most closely guarded secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Among the most closely held secrets in government is advance information on employment, prices and the economy in general.

The information in the government's reports on April wholesale prices and employment released last week is an example.

Outside of the people directly involved in preparing statistics, only the President and the chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers are entitled to know them in advance.

The chief reason for guarding against premature disclosure of statistics is that the information could be used by speculators to turn a quick profit on financial markets.

But the secrets have not always been so closely guarded. Prior to October 1974, when new regulations took effect, as many as 40 to 50 others knew, including top department officials.

Leaks of the information, including leaks to reporters, were common. Although advance word still occasionally reaches unauthorized ears, leaks are guarded against and frowned upon, almost as much as if they involved confidential negotiations between governments.

West German banks apparently were finding out U.S. trade figures a half-hour early. Because the figures showed a big U.S. trade surplus, the banks were buying U.S. dollars in anticipation that the dollar would be worth more after the figures were publicly released.

The agency clamped down on the number of reporters who could have the information the customary half-hour ahead of time and prevented them from leaving its news room until after the actual release time had arrived. The leak stopped.

Another reason for maintaining secrecy is that advance word on some statistics, such as employment and unemployment, could be turned into a political advantage, especially during an election year.

Since President Ford is the only one of the 1976 presidential candidates who has access to statistics ahead of time, he could benefit from this knowledge. But there apparently has been no consideration of keeping the information from him, since the President is held to be entitled to all government information as it becomes available.

Usually there is only a 24-hour lag between the time information is finally compiled and its actual release to the public through the media.

The tight control has been welcomed by government economists, statisticians and others who say they can recall occasional attempts during resigned President Richard M. Nixon's administration to bend statistics to political winds.

The new regulations would make it more difficult for a department head to do what former Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent did with some trade figures on May 23, 1973.

Dent called a news conference to announce a big trade surplus in April 1973, the nation's first monthly trade surplus in 18 months. At the time, Nixon was under considerable pressure because of the Watergate scandal and the White House was sure to welcome any good statistics before reporting on them.

Sidney L. Jones, a top administration economist who supervised the release of Commerce Department statistics during a portion of the Nixon years, said he recalled attempts by the White House to influence the interpretation of statistics, although not the statistics themselves.

"I took heat several times on how they should be worded," said Jones, now assistant Treasury secretary for economic affairs.

"It's not the figure itself. It was the interpretation of it that's the problem, such as whether a two-tenths per cent change means anything or is in the area of statistical error," he said.

For most statistics, including the unemployment rate, any change below two-tenths of 1 per cent is considered to be possibly nothing more than a statistical error.

The timing of the release of statistics also is controlled. The Office of Management and Budget releases a schedule a month early of the 40-odd statistics to be released during the next month, and deviations from it are rare.

OMB statisticians say most statistics are released at approximately the same time each month, so that someone could plot with considerable accuracy the dates statistics will be released for an entire year.

Only you can insure a Republican Victory in November. And Ronald Reagan is the only Republican who can win it then.

Only Ronald Reagan can re-unite the Republican Party. He first proved that by being elected Governor in 1966.

And he has proven it again and again ever since. His Presidential primary victories in Texas and Indiana, show without doubt that he has broad appeal that crosses party lines.

Ronald Reagan has the ability to be a strong President. His eight years as governor of California, the largest of all the states, demonstrates the competence and take-charge capability he has to get that job done.

- Most important, however, is the fact that Ronald Reagan is the one Republican candidate who will not be on the defensive.
- He will not have to defend the largest peacetime deficit in the nation's 200 year history.
- He will not have to defend soaring inflation or embarrassing unemployment.
- He will not have to defend a foreign policy that has brought America loss of trust and respect throughout the world.
- He will not have to defend such incidents as Angola, the Panama Canal, or the signing of the Helsinki Pact, which sealed the fate of millions of Eastern Europeans.
- Nor will he have to defend the fact of being an appointed President who was never elected by the people.

It is simple and clear. Ronald Reagan is the only candidate who can bring victory to the Republican Party in November.

And only you can insure that victory. Your vote on June 8th is important. Make sure that it counts by voting for Ronald Reagan.

HEATED BY SUN — The solar panels mounted on the top of this garage roof heat the water in the swimming pool, foreground, at a home in West Los Angeles.

Solar pool heaters making big splash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Solar pool heaters are making a big splash these days in the wake of a state Public Utilities Commission order that could mean the end of electrical and natural gas hookups.

The Dec. 30, 1975 order banning such installations after last April 1 evoked a wave of protest from the swimming pool industry and the commission stayed its order pending a series of public hearings. A final decision is expected this month, but PUC counsel Frieda Abbott left little doubt as to the agency's thinking on the matter.

"In other states, service of natural gas has been shut off, not only for pool hookups but for other services," she said during hearings here. "If we do not prohibit gas service to pools, we may find ourselves in a situation eventually where we have to ban all gas services."

The most immediate beneficiary of the PUC action, as well as a recently passed state law granting homeowners an income tax credit equal to 10 per cent of the cost of a solar system, is a Menlo Park company called Fafco, Inc., whose 6,000 installations nationwide make it the country's largest manufacturer of solar pool heaters.

Fafco's system utilizes thin, hollow panels of black plastic mounted on a roof or specially-built rack. The panels absorb the sun's heat and pass it on to water fed through them by the pool's existing pump. The system operates with either the existing pool timer or a sensing device that turns it on when the sun is shining and leaves it off on overcast days.

"The heating of swimming pools is an ideal venture for solar energy because storage and circulation are already included," says Freeman A. Ford, Fafco's founder and president.

Pool owners, though they may have little choice, seem to agree.

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here are a few.

SIX HOT TIPS ON AIR CONDITIONING.

You'll save energy. Money, too.

1. Air condition only rooms in use.

If you have a room unit, keep all doors closed to the room you're cooling. When the children (or family pet) go outside, don't forget to close the door. Keep the windows closed, too. And draw your draperies and blinds. Outside awnings or other sun screens will also reduce your cooling needs.

2. Keep equipment clean. Clean accessible parts, but be careful not to damage them. Check filters every month and clean or replace as needed.

3. Keep temperature at 78° or higher. The less difference there is between inside and outside temperatures, the lower the air conditioning cost. If you have a room air conditioner, use a thermometer to see that the room temperature drops no lower than 78°. Remember: air conditioning is not to make you cold—just comfortable.

4. Consider an automatic timer.

Timer attachments are available that will turn off your room air conditioner when you are away from home and turn it on before you return.

5. Investigate an energy-saving unit. If you're in the market for a room air conditioner, compare the Energy Efficiency Ratio rating. The higher the efficiency, the more cooling you get from the electricity you use.

6. Insulate your attic. If your attic isn't properly insulated, you could be using too much energy for air conditioning. (Too much energy to heat your home, too.) For information, see your local insulation contractor.

Free conservation booklet. For more of Edison's ways to conserve energy, write for our free booklet, "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

Chris George

Leads a grizzly life

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Chris George is one of the actors involved with a 15-foot, one-ton grizzly bear in the current release, "Grizzly," which is an attempt to do for bears what "Jaws" did for tropical fish.

"The bear," Chris says, "was trained — but not tamed. He was trained to respect a green cord. During his training, that green cord was electrified and the trainer would shout, 'Hot line!' when he got near it. He learned to back off."

"During the filming, they used the same green cord and the same shout of 'Hot line!' And he'd back off — usually. But once or twice, he'd just keep on coming. At that point, his trainer would advise us, in the strongest possible terms, to freeze. The trainer would throw chunks of bread to divert him. Everybody survived, so I guess it worked."

George hopes this film will be valuable to his career. He's been away from acting for about two years. He tried his hand at producing and made a couple of films "which nobody saw," so he's back acting again.

He says what he'd like, now, is to do something like a third lead in a film with a top director like Coppola or Forman, but he can't — because, he says, he's thought of as a TV actor.

CHRIS GEORGE

And he says there's still a caste system in Hollywood, and TV actors are TV actors, not movie actors.

But he doesn't want another series. He's afraid of that.

"Nowadays," he says, "they don't give a TV series a decent shot. Even Harry O was dropped by ABC, despite good ratings."

"And the stuff the public watches is awful. Look at Laverne and Shirley — I just can't see it. My 3½-year-old loves it, and I guess that's its audience."

John Lee's great thriller, "The Ninth Man," has been bought by Zanuck and Brown, the same team that bought "Jaws" and made it a few blocks.

"They bought it," Lee says, "when it was still in manuscript form. My agent got me the same deal Peter Benchley got for 'Jaws.' But, of course, it's far too early to say if the movie of 'The Ninth Man' does as well as 'Jaws' — and whether I'll become a millionaire, like Benchley."

Already, though, there are some dividends from the deal. Lee, who has been teaching journalism at Cal State Long Beach, is going to take a year off and do nothing but write another novel.

His wife, Barbara Moore, is a novelist, too.

ROCKET'S RED GLARE — In observance of the Bicentennial, the 1976 Rose Bowl Circus and Fireworks Show will offer the most elaborate display of aerial pyrotechnics since the event was inaugurated more than 50 years ago. Starting at 8 p.m. July 4, the Pasadena stadium will present a 300-foot fiery rendition of Niagara Falls, aerial bombs, fairy fountains, roman candles, a candle battery and tree of jewels. Tickets at $4 and $3 (children half-price) are on sale at Thrifty drugstores.

Goya etchings now at Getty

"Los Disparates" (also known as "Los Proberbios"), the last and perhaps the most provocative set of etchings by the Spanish artist Don Francisco Goya, will be featured in a special exhibit at the J. Paul Getty Museum, Malibu, Tuesday through Aug. 18.

The exhibit presents a first edition set of 18 etchings, on loan from Washington State University, Pullman, which are considered to be the most intriguing and perplexing of Goya's great etching cycles.

The introduction to the catalog for the exhibit states that "Los Disparates" is the creation of a series of nightmarish images of a world in pain, suffering caused not by metaphysical forces beyond man's control, but by man himself, by the exercise of his will and by the abandonment of his reason." "Los Disparates" combines multi-leveled symbolism in nightmarish satires of the absurd and horrible through his depiction of strange gatherings, bizarre monsters and distorted humans.

There is no charge to attend the exhibit, but advance parking reservations are suggested for guaranteed admission into the Museum.

★ The 1¢ sales tax increase to 7 percent (a 17% increase in your sales tax) is regressive and inflationary because it hits people on fixed, low and medium incomes the hardest for the benefit of downtown Los Angeles business who will profit by so-called rapid transit.

★ The proposed system falls short in reducing air pollution, conserving energy and removing local traffic. To make matters worse, the proposed system is unresponsive to the transportation demand in the Los Angeles area, where 70% of the trips taken are less than six miles in length.

★ The system to be built at a cost of $22 billion over the next 30 years, at best would serve only 8% of the people in Los Angeles County. This is far too much to pay to benefit just a few.

Butz raps 'irresponsible government spending'

The federal government is becoming a "fat giant" and it's time to "blow the whistle on irresponsible public spending and inflationary public deficits," U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz told Claremont Men's College graduates Sunday.

Butz, speaking at the college commencement ceremonies, said "too often in recent years we've confused human need with human want. Human needs can be fulfilled, but human wants are insatiable and any government that tries to keep up with them — or promises to fulfill them — is doomed to collapse."

There are "disturbing trends" today, Butz declared. "Our government is getting progressively more centralized, more top heavy and more rigid. Legislators are now busy piling laws on top of laws."

The federal budget has a target of $413 billion, with a projected deficit of $51 billion, which may be reached in two years, according to Butz.

Many persons feels government somehow is separate from the people, the secretary noted. One only has to look at the influence environmental and consumer groups are now having to disprove the contention, he added.

Because of this "schizophrenic attitude" of thinking of government of one entity and the people as another, "some individuals feel this makes it right to take advantage of the government whenever they can."

Each person carries a little of the guilt, said Butz. "Too often the first thing a city councilman, farmer or businessman does when he wishes to undertake a new investment is to check and see if there is any federal money available. I've seen books on the newstand on 'How to Get Government money'," the speaker said.

People close their eyes and take money from the right hand and put it into the left, "somehow figuring that we have doubled the amount of cash on hand," he said.

Federal money is not free, Butz warned. Government has the power to fund public projects through deficit financing and then later monetize the debt or print new money to handle the expenses.

"But this sort of economic maneuvering is tricky. It can easily backfire in a round of rampant inflation that erodes the value of every dollar now in existence."

Americans will continue to have big government "as long as we keep turning individual and local responsibilities over to the federal government, hoping someone else can meet them," Butz said.

The Declaration of Independence said "all men are created equal," he added. However, "nowhere does it say anything about having outrageously expensive programs to accomplish these aims. Nowhere does it say all men should end up equal."

Women's roles covered by Mrs. Henry Jackson

Helen Hardin Jackson, Scripps College alumna and wife of U.S. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, told the 199 members of the Scripps graduating class, their families and friends Sunday that the women's movement must establish an ongoing goal of providing women with the same kind of choices and degree of control over their future as men have always had.

Speaking on "The Role of Women in Public Life," Mrs. Jackson reflected upon her own graduation from the independent, liberal arts women's college in 1955.

"For the overwhelming majority of women in America who graduated from college when I did, and even up through most of the 1960's, graduation was, in truth, more of a finale than a commencement," she said.

"It wasn't that we were stupid or lazy — it was simply that we were entering into a society which gave women very few choices. The odds were stacked heavily against a young woman applying for admission to graduate school, medical school or law school. Moreover, she had to go it alone, without the support of a women's liberation movement and without legal recourse to combat sex discrimination."

Mrs. Jackson admitted that when the women's liberation movement began in the mid-1960's, she was not completely in agreement.

"But like any progressive movement in our country whose cause is just and whose time has come, the women's movement survived its growing pains, matured and moved into the mainstream of American life."

As one of its initial detractors, I should say now that the feminist onslaught of the mid-1960's was probably responsible for shocking society into its senses in the 1970's and creating the momentum for positive change which is in full force today."

She referred to her own experiences campaigning for her husband. In the 1972 election, when Jackson first ran for president, she said, "The role of the Candidate's Wife — with a capital 'C' and a capital 'W' — was essentially a passive one. Except for attending ladies' teas and giving 'Happy Homemaker' interviews to ladies' page reporters, my campaign activities were limited primarily to accompanying Scoop on his campaign."

This year, however, Mrs. Jackson said, things had changed radically. She has campaigned on her husband's behalf on her own, visiting plants and factories, giving speeches before all types of groups.

"It was most encouraging to find women in important roles at every level of the political process — as coordinators and managers in Scoop's own campaign; as governmental and party officeholders; and as interested voters, much more informed and demanding than the women audiences I had encountered in 1972," she said.

Mrs. Jackson urged the Scripps Class of 1976 to become involved in the political life of their communities and country. "Women are finally coming of age in American political life. Each of us must actively participate in the political process, because what we do can make a difference. It is important to elect a more representative proportion of women to responsible political positions. It is also important that we get on with the business of passing the Equal Rights Amendment, which is still four states short of ratification."

Scripps graduating senior Evanne Christian of Anaheim spoke on "Now That We Know All The Answers — What Was The Question?" at the 46th Annual Commencement. In her humorous speech, Miss Christian reflected on her four years as a college student looking for answers. She concluded, "We are the lucky ones — college graduates who must take our share of responsibility for maintaining the world's sanity. We must allow our idealism and sense of humor to continue through the years. Now we must ask, 'What will I do with the rest of my life?'"

In his charge to the class, Scripps President Mark H. Curtis, who earlier was honored by Board of Trustees Chairman Kenneth Rhodes for his 12 years of devoted service to the college, compared himself to the graduating seniors. "I count myself among your number as this is my last official act as President of Scripps," he said, referring to his resignation as of June 30.

Send-a-Kid-to-Camp

Mario gained memories, more friends on his outing

A long summer in the city isn't all fun when you're poor.

That's why a week at camp in the mountains can provide a disadvantaged youth with a new positive outlook. You can help provide such an opportunity with a contribution to the Send-a-Kid-to-Camp drive conducted by the Donrey Public Foundation Inc.

Mario was one of the youths who spent a week at camp last year thanks to generous contributions.

Now 13, he looks back on that week with memories of exciting activities, clean air and lasting friendships.

"It was fun. We had boating, shooting and archery and went on hikes," said Mario.

All those things were new for Mario, and they could not have happened without the contributions of the Send-a-Kid-to-Camp program. He is one of five children of immigrant parents, who couldn't afford to send him to camp.

But Mario has more than memories. He has the friendship of other boys he met there and a continuing interest in astronomy, fostered in part by his talks with his camp counselor.

"Mike, my counselor, brought books on astronomy and even had a laser light we played with at night," said Mario.

"When I told my friends about camp, they all wanted to know how they could go," he said.

Like Mario, many of his friends are from poor families and won't be able to go to camp without help.

To contribute, make your check payable to the Donrey Public Foundation Inc., P.O. Box 2708, Pomona, 91766.

All contributions are tax deductible. Lists of contributors will be published in the Progress Bulletin unless persons ask not to be identified.

La Verne College graduates gather for commencement ceremonies Sunday. Three student speakers addressed an audience of some 3,000 persons at the college quadrangle.

Harvey Mudd grad speech on population

Graduates are completing their education at a time when the human species also is in the midst of a "rite of passage," Harvey Mudd College President Joseph B. Platt said Sunday.

Platt, speaking at the college's commencement ceremonies in Claremont, indicated graduates are living in one of the "turning points of human history."

By the time of Christ there may have been 250 million people; by the American Revolution, 900 million, he said. "When I was born in 1915 there were two billion and now there are four billion."

"Most of you will live to be among six billion people on earth. There will be a limit somewhere, through conscious choice or disaster, and we could approach that limit within a century."

There are numerous transformations that have occurred over the years, Platt noted.

"When Margaret Mead was here last fall, she pointed out that you are the first generation to have grown up since the atomic bomb. Genghis Khan did very well with the tools at his command but ever since I can remember, you have lived 20 minutes from annihilation."

Platt stated this "rite of passage" can be traced back 3,000 years. "You live at a time of a global graduation ceremony; the question now is what we do with all that dominion."

Platt said he was "hopeful" about this year's graduates. "One can, of course, invent some horrible futures for the human race but one also can invent with equal plausibility some happy and fulfilling futures."

Chino Library travel fair

The Chino library will host a travel fair Tuesday from 3 to 7 p.m.

Travel consultants from various local agencies will provide the public with information regarding journeys within the U.S. and abroad.

Wanda Franov, TWA consultant, will demonstrate luggage packing techniques and answer questions each half hour between 5 and 7 p.m. Free travel brochures will be available. Further information may be obtained by calling 628-1604.

Area grass fire

A grass fire which started in San Dimas and crossed the city line into La Verne spread over two acres and damaged some eucalyptus trees Sunday afternoon.

The fire started at 4 p.m.

Bradbury: get excited with life

Admonishing the 12th graduating class of Pitzer College to "live forever," science fiction writer Ray Bradbury told the 160 graduates and their parents Sunday to lead "hysterical lives by being madly in love with whatever you do."

Bradbury talked for about 30 minutes in an outdoor ceremony on the Pitzer campus. His topic was "Creative Hysteria — How to be Manic in a Depressed Time Zone."

Declaring that he was tired of "doom-criers," Bradbury challenged the graduates to prowl the libraries and to "look within yourself for the foolish, grand, wild, beautiful thing that instructs us — our secret wishes."

Libraries, he said, are the greatest thing that ever happened to America because they make it possible for everybody to get an education without investing a cent. Andrew Carnegie — who established 11,000 libraries — is, in Bradbury's eyes, "America's greatest revolutionary."

The combination of knowledge and "being true to a dream" can be potent, according to Bradbury.

"I've been a very foolish person, wrong in everything I've done," said Bradbury, widely regarded as one of the world's greatest science fiction writers.

"People told me not to write about the space age 30 years ago — fortunately, I didn't listen. They told me not to write plays. They told me my poetry was awful. At one time or another, everything I've attempted has been wrong in somebody's eyes."

"But by following that wrongness, I've made a life."

"I want you to lead hysterical lives by being madly in love with whatever you do."

This, he added, leads to excellence and "strangely enough, where excellence begins, competition ends."

Ed Davis honored at Cal Poly fete

Los Angeles Police Chief Edward M. Davis was initiated into Phi Kappa Phi honor society at Cal Poly Pomona Saturday at Kellogg West on the campus.

He headed a list of 62 candidates joining the national society which recognizes academic excellence during ceremonies directed by Paul Weisend, president of the local PKP chapter.

Honored with membership along with Davis was Beaumont Davison, dean of the School of Engineering at Cal Poly.

Student candidates included juniors who rank in the top five per cent of their class and seniors who are in the top 10 per cent of their class.

Initiates presented certificates and pins included: Lisa Derr, Gail King, Marilyn Mikulics, Roberta Seapy, Julie Ann Wilson and Karen Wilson, School of Agriculture; Marian Blank, Kathy Ann Fredricks, Jerald Imburgia, Laura Nelson, Kristen Norris, Dorris Pomerene, Kar-La Schokman, Carolyn Shindo, Mary Ann Teagle, Randa Wallace, Judith Wenrick and Sheryl Wyrick, School of Arts.

Sidney Brown, Linda Cordrey, Linda Dannels, Dale Grossman, Karen Gunderson, Ray Hamilton, John Holton, Mary Ann Johnson, Roberta Lahr, Ram Lakhwani, Betty Lee, Chris McConnell, Dale Overholt, Marie-Claire Pinal, Betty Jane Thordarson, Terryl Walls, Marjorie Williams and Virginia Wilson, School of Business.

Gregory Beck, Jerome Breitenbach, Frank Clemence, Todd Cramer, Douglas Dubrall, Hung Le, Thomas Miller, David Moore, Raymond Ong, Edward Rocha, William Stall, John Sutton, Joseph Lang and Paul Thede, School of Engineering.

Robert Boyd, Pat Daugherty, Cynthia Hawley, Lora Lundberg, Mark McKnight, Jan Miethke and Elaine Watanabe, School of Science; and Renee Perrault, Jane Prendergast and Elaine Turner, Teacher Preparation Center.

The formal initiation ceremonies preceded a dinner at which Chief Davis spoke briefly and was presented a shillelagh.

Pressures face LVC graduates, claims speaker

"Determining success or failure will be the greatest conflict La Verne College graduates will face as they move through life," Donald Carter, summa cum laude graduate and commencement speaker, told his classmates Sunday afternoon on the LVC Quadrangle.

More than 3,000 guests and graduates were told by the honor student that they will face constant pressures, as many in this world think that the only value in life is "keeping up with the Joneses."

He cautioned the graduates that the criteria for success lies within their own minds, and he quoted a statement by John Wooden, former UCLA basketball coach: "Success is peace of mind which is the direct result of self-satisfaction in knowing you have done your best to do your best."

The graduate of the 84-year-old school which enjoyed a long association with the Church of the Brethren, said:

"God has given us talents to use. We must use these talents to their greatest potential. Only then will we experience peace of mind."

He challenged his classmates to use their talents and to experience success in their own eyes and the eyes of God, rather than in the eyes of other people.

Michael Watanabe, speaker for the graduate and professional school, called upon his classmates to further develop their intellects and their values, and to bring their liberal arts education into the world where, he said, there is too much emphasis on the technological.

"The true calling of a liberal arts graduate is to make sure that this country doesn't become a nation of technologists," he said.

State courts as activists

An interesting turnaround seems to be underway in the nation's legal life.

Where once champions of civil liberties looked to the U.S. Supreme Court, especially during the days of the activist "Warren Court," to lead the fight for the enlargement of individual rights, since the advent of the conservative "Burger Court," they are more and more turning to the state courts.

One of those who not only perceives such a movement but who encourages it is himself a member of the Supreme Court. With the court "pulling back" from the enforcement of constitutional rights, state courts should "thrust themselves into the struggle," says Associate Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who in 28 years on the high bench has served under both Chief Justice Warren and Chief Justice Burger.

The state courts, no less than the federal courts, "are and ought to be the guardians of our liberties," he says.

Despite the Supreme Court's historic role as final arbiter of "the law of the land," there are many areas of state law in which it has no authority. The reason the court became so involved in civil rights in the Warren years was due to the failure of state performance in this area, combined with application of the 14th Amendment extending federal civil rights guarantees to the citizens of all the states.

Recently, however, with the Supreme Court ruling against individual claims under the U.S. Constitution in a number of cases, some state courts have issued opposite ruling based on their own constitutions, most of which are modeled after the federal Constitution.

Under the U.S. system of federal and state courts, Brennan points out, many of these state rulings cannot be overturned by the federal courts and "indeed, are not even reviewable by the Supreme Court of the United States."

An example of this kind of conflict is a decision by California's highest court that the state's constitution protects the privacy of individual bank accounts from official inspection without the knowledge or consent of the depositor. The U.S. Supreme Court, over dissents by Justices Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, has ruled the federal law does permit such inspection.

If this new activism on the part of state courts is in fact a trend, it suggests that we are in the process of a retreat from a liberal reading of the 14th Amendment back to the Xth Amendment, which provides that "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people" — this time because of a failure of performance by the U.S. Supreme Court.

That the state courts are not likely ever to displace the Supreme Court as guarantors of individual liberties, however, is suggested by at least one recent case involving a Virginia law, upheld by the Supreme Court, prohibiting certain sexual acts between consenting adults. (Though hailed by some as a victory for heterosexual morality, the law, if generally enforced, would actually fall most heavily on married couples.)

But if the U.S. Supreme Court has "pulled back" in this and other instances, it has also forged ahead elsewhere, as in one of its latest rulings extending free-speech protection to some kinds of advertising.

Fee fairness fed affairs?

Proposed legislation in Congress has frosted the Ivy at a number of the nation's institutions of higher learning, including the Ivy League. Senate bill 2857, an amendment to the Higher Education Act, would establish federal standards, and provide federal remedies, for the fair allocation of student activity fees at every school receiving funds under the Higher Education Act.

In a strong statement presented to the Senate by the legal officers of the Ivy League Institutions and Stanford University, the proposal is characterized as "a prime example of the legal pollution which currently threatens the nation's educational environment."

If the proposal were enacted, the statement continues, student groups, which often feel that the activities fee pie has not been cut fairly, would have a federal law and a federal forum in which to pursue their grievances — at a time when the Chief Justice of the United States is already decrying the shortage of federal judges to deal with the present caseload.

"Questions as trivial as whether permission is granted to hold a bake sale could be litigated in the federal courts," the attorneys claim.

Fairness in the allocation of student activity fees is an important objective, they concede, "but not an important federal objective." While the intent of the amendment might well be adopted by individual institutions of higher learning, what they object to is "the increasing propensity of federal government to intrude randomly into day-to-day operations of our colleges and universities and descent to progressively trivial levels of the educational process."

Girl, 18, can't donate blood

Dear Editor:

My daughter attends Pomona Catholic High School and members of the senior class went over to donate blood for one of their classmates' father who was killed in the gang shooting in China.

She is almost 18 years old so I wrote a note asking that she be allowed to donate blood and signed the note with a phone number in case there was any question in regards to her donating blood. She came home very sad. She was not allowed to donate blood as she was not 18 and despite the fact that she had parental consent.

I checked with the Pomona Health Center and I quote: "A child of 12 can get birth control pills, V.D. treatment and even an abortion at that age but it's a state law one cannot donate blood until the age of 18. And the 12 year old need not even have parental permission." Some state laws we have.

A military union?

Dear Editor:

The latest frightening news from Washington, D.C. is to unionize the armed forces of the United States of America.

The organizations supporting such a ridiculous proposition eventually are labor groups.

I desire to clarify my position concerning this issue. Let's explore what might happen under such a proposition.

1. It could become a political issue.

2. How could we citizens and/or military forces maintain discipline?

3. Under union organization the U.S. military forces could vote and say to the country when it comes to defense, "Sorry, we're on strike."

At present we have volunteer armed forces and why should they who volunteered knowing beforehand their obligations to country and duty have to join a union for their rights?

My right is to write a letter. Your right is to agree or disagree with my comments. There isn't any force behind me or against me.

I urge people to contact their congressmen and senators in Washington, D.C. and would-be office holders. This is not a issue to lay dormant. Wake up America.

White outhouse?

Dear Editor:

As an old time voter, I may have some strange opinions, but as a loyal voting American, I am greatly concerned over some of the candidates running for president. If Governor Brown is elected to the presidency, are we going to have to build a little white outhouse on our beautiful national grounds for him to live in? I would hate to see our long traditions of White House living broken. What do you think about this situation? I think all potential voters should keep this in mind.

Inside Chile's secret police HQ

WASHINGTON — At an awkward moment for the military dictatorship, a daring American congressman literally broke into Chile's dread Villa Grimaldi, the secret police headquarters, where political prisoners allegedly are tortured.

Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, and his aide Joe Eldridge managed to get inside the infamous torture center at the same time that President Augusto Pinochet, the military strongman, is trying to convince the U.S. Congress that Chile is "making progress" in human rights.

If Congress does not become convinced, U.S. aid to the military regime may be cut off. For there is growing sentiment in Congress to make further funds conditional upon the civilized treatment of prisoners.

Harkin and Eldridge were part of a congressional team, which had been invited to Chile to satisfy themselves about conditions. They were even escorted through the Tres Alamos prison camp. But when they asked to visit the Villa Grimaldi police headquarters, they were told politely that no such place existed.

The Americans, nevertheless, kept hearing whispered tales about the "nonexistent" Villa. Chilean sources confided that the Villa had once been a plantation, later a swinging nightclub, now an interrogation center. The secret police used savage methods, it was alleged, to get the answers they wanted.

The Villa was a place, the Americans heard, to which many went but from which few returned. The Chilean sources even slipped the congressman the address of the "nonexistent" Villa: 8200 Jose Arrieta Avenue in a suburban section of Santiago.

Harkin decided to determine for himself whether the Villa Grimaldi existed. With his aide, he set out by taxi to the forbidden address. He directed the driver to park the cab well down the street and wait.

A massive white stone wall surrounded the buildings at 8200 Jose Arrieta Avenue. Across the street were small, fenced-in farming lots. The neighborhood was deserted except for one man who watched the two Americans from one of the farm plots.

Harkin and Eldridge crossed the street and spoke to the bystander. "What is this place?" they asked in Spanish. "What's in there?" The Chilean's only reply was to draw his right hand across his tight lips in a zipping motion. Then he quickly walked away to the security of some distant buildings.

The pair from Capitol Hill inspected the walled-in Villa closer. The stone wall extended for most of the block. Barb wire was visible on the other side of the wall. The roofs of the buildings behind the wall bristled the antennae.

The only entrance was a massive metal double door, with a grilled window on each side. The Americans approached the great metal door and rapped on it with authority.

A man appeared in one window. The Americans identified themselves, explained they had been invited by Chilean authorities to visit government facilities. They asked what place this was, what happened here and whether they could enter.

The man refused to admit them or answer their questions. He listened mutely for a while and then withdrew, leaving the Americans standing alone in the street. Just as they turned to leave, two unmarked cars with radio antennae roared up to the gate. The heavy metal doors swung inward to admit the vehicles.

Before the doors slammed shut, Harkin and Eldridge darted inside the compound. Their stay was brief, and they got only a quick view of the courtyard. A rack of rifles leaned against one wall. Several pickup trucks, each with a canvas-covered top and an antenna, were parked in the courtyard. The pickups matched the description of vehicles that the street police used in their prisoner roundups.

The two Americans saw no prisoners, no torture. Half a dozen men, wearing civilian shirts and trousers, combat boots and pistol belts, swarmed around them. Harkin flashed his congressional identification and kept repeating that he had been invited to visit government facilities.

Carter organized for success

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Ex-Governor Jimmy Carter's success to date rests primarily on one asset — organization. So does ex-Governor Ronald Reagan's.

Not the old-line organization which depended on party bosses and endorsements by prominent pols. But the new-type party organization which depends heavily on inexperienced but enthusiastic amateurs led by hard-headed, unsentimental pragmatic types.

Sen. George McGovern demonstrated the technique in his upset capture of the Democratic nomination the last go-round. However vague and wobbly the McGovern ideas on foreign affairs, defense and economics, his drive for the candidacy was led by tough-minded men, and fleshed out with an army of hard-driving nonpoliticians loyal to McGovern rather than the party. Some of the McGovern men have since shown their own ability at winning elections for themselves against tough opposition, using these same methods.

It has been the tendency of established traditional candidates of late to depend on the fading party apparatus, on labor organizations, on so-called party bosses largely stripped of their own old powers, influence and personal contacts. There are few big names with influence any more.

Ford may still have the inside track on the nomination, because his men signed up delegate slates — committed and uncommitted — in big-population states with heavy representation at the Republican convention neglected by the Reagan team. But in those states where Reagan men organized, and Ford men appealed to the apparatus and the big names, the Reagan vote did not. Though Reagan entered late, his workers had been busy for some time.

Carter began especially early in building his own organization. He did not care whether his men and women were in the apparatus or out, whether they were Democrats, independents or Republicans, whether they were rich, poor or middle. His organizers were like vacuum cleaners; they sought workers wherever workers were — friends of old friends, friends and associates from his Navy days, from his business days in the South and from his days in the legislature and State House in Georgia. And friends of friends of friends.

I have seen this system work time and again in local elections. The amateur, too inexperienced to know his system won't work, defeats the professionals with their experienced techniques.

In a sense it is like guerrilla war, the experts with their established channels are overwhelmed by numbers of hit-and-run operators the top party men have never heard of seen before.

The conventional wisdom attributes the Carter and Reagan upsets to a nationwide reaction against Washington and all its ilk. But there's nothing new in this. I cannot remember any time when my neighbors, in whatever state I lived, trusted Washington, or any state government either.

In fact, in my youth, if there was any government my elder and my peers mistrusted more than Washington, it was the government of their state, especially the governor. Both Carter and Reagan, of course, are ex-governors, subject to as much criticism while in office as President Ford the Republican and Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, Democrats.

Doc Peirsol Just in jest

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up at the friendly local tavern and, as the drinks disappeared, it became increasingly evident that this was no ordinary group. In fact, to hear them tell it, the various members of that convivial conclave had at one time or another been big time high school and college athletes. And, as such, they naturally felt fully qualified to point out what is wrong with the way interscholastic and collegiate sports are being run today.

As might be expected, a clash of opinions soon developed and, as is customary in such situations, the bartender was called upon for a ruling. His classic reply deserves special mention because it so clearly illustrates what diplomatic masters of the art of being all things to all people bartenders can sometimes be.

"Sorry fellows," he said, "leave me out of it. My only claim to fame as an athlete is that once I had athlete's foot."

Barn locking afterwards

By EARL G. WATERS

In what appears to have been done in the midst of much soul searching and anguish, the State College Trustees have decreed a basic writing test as a condition for receiving a degree.

This should be welcome news for employers who constantly are dismayed at the inability of college grads to read and write and spell. But one must continue to wonder how students can graduate from high school without such fundamental skills? For that matter how can they graduate from grade school and expect to absorb a high school education if they can't read and comprehend and can't express themselves clearly in written words?

This point was seized upon by Governor Jerry Brown, sitting as a trustee. He observed that colleges shouldn't be in the business of remedial education. In his view children shouldn't get beyond the third grade without having basic reading and writing abilities.

In imposing the requirement the trustees did in fact reverse the long standing policy against remedial classes. And there was considerable opposition to the new policy although the vote was 14 to 1. The opponents were in the audience, not on the board. Students objected to the tests asserting they don't aim at the problem and also opposed the fees which will be charged for the tests.

One of the most vociferous objectors was Cathy Weiser, representing a committee on student writing skills, who saw the tests as being racially discriminatory. She contends the idea of withholding a degree after a student has gone through 120 units because of writing inability is "ridiculous."

With that, one would have to agree. It is indeed ridiculous that one who can't read or write is allowed to waste the taxpayers money for their attendance at a college. To permit such attendance to continue for four years is more than ridiculous. The test should be a condition of entrance, not exiting. If ever there was a case to fit the adage of locking the barn after the horse is gone, the pre-graduation rather than pre-entrance policy is it.

For many years it has been assumed the colleges were maintaining certain standards for admission so that those unable to benefit from the programs would not waste their time and that of the more capable students. These standards have been based upon grade averages achieved in high school. It has become quite obvious to everyone, the trustees included, that the grade standards are not reliable else how could one arrive at college with passing high school grades in required English courses and not be able to write?

Inasmuch as the tests will be given immediately after admission it is clear the trustees have assumed those who are deficient will be able to overcome their weaknesses through "bonehead" classes. But what of those who can't? Under the plan they will be permitted to take up space in classes for four years with the certainty that a degree will be denied.

It seems all too transparent that the "educators" are more interested in maintaining huge enrollments than graduating quality students.

If you don't believe that you should ask why the school administrators lobbied the Legislature until it repealed a prohibition against graduating students from high school unless they could demonstrate reading and writing skills equal to the eighth grade! That's right, the requirement only called for the abilities of a grammar school kid. The educators thought that was too harsh!

Quest ends with a silver lining

We have been purchasing serial numbered silver bars of the Great Locomotive Series from the Mt. Everest Mint in Pennsylvania.

Last November we sent our check for our ninth bar in a set of 10. We have never received it.

We would appreciate your finding out why. We are eager to obtain the whole set as we are railroad buffs. — Mr. and Mrs. H.C.J., Pomona.

As a result of our efforts, you got your bar and an apology for the delay.

Mt. Everest Mint has new owners and a new supply of silver. The owners have assured you that you won't have to wait so long for your last bar of the set.

In March I sent to Parade Fashions in Chicago a check for $33 for two jump suits.

I received a card stating that the merchandise was being held because I was $1.98 short for postage. I sent the check the same day.

To date I have not received the merchandise. I have written to the firm three times regarding this as I have the canceled checks.

About four weeks ago I received a form letter with several little blocks to indicate the reason for the delay but none of the blocks had been checked.

It stated that if I had not received my merchandise in 10 days to return the letter. I did but I haven't heard anything further from the firm. — F.L., Chino.

We sent a copy of your canceled check along with your inquiry.

A Parade Fashions representative said the firm's records showed that a parcel was mailed to you at the address shown on your check and returned. The post office advised it could not be forwarded.

Your letter showed that you now live at another address. Parade Fashions will re-ship your jump suits to your new home.

I think I may be eligible for food stamps. How can I make sure? — A.F., Montclair.

The procedure for determining eligibility is complicated but we'll give you some general guidelines.

If every person in your household receives some kind of welfare you are eligible. In California, no one who receives Supplementary Security Income is eligible but the presence of an SSI recipient in a household does not affect the eligibility of other people in the household.

Non-public assistance households can get food stamps if their resources and income are not too high.

You can own the following and still get food stamps: Your house, lot and one licensed vehicle; your personal belongings and household goods; the cash value of your life insurance policy and pension fund; income-producing property; tools, another car and other things you use to make a living; the resources of a roomer or boarder, resources that are not available to you, such as irrevocable trust funds.

In addition, a non-public assistance household can have resources worth up to $1,500.

There is one exception. If the household has two or more persons and at least one of them is 60 or older, then the household can have up to $3,000.

The amount of your income after certain deductions determines how much you pay for food stamps. The less income you have, the less you pay. Food stamp allotments range from $50 for one person to $298 for eight in the household. The cost of your stamps is always less than the allotment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take nothing for granted in any commercial dealings you have today. Failing to stay on top of matters could be a costly mistake.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your usually dependable allies may be the ones who let you down the hardest today. It's best to rely more on yourself and less on others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Rather than work on a task you resent doing today, set it aside for the moment. You won't do a good job if your heart isn't in it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't attach strings to a favor you do for another today. Actions of this type will breed resentment and put the relationship in jeopardy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you can be rather optimistic regarding the outcome of events that you take a hand in, but today you're likely to be very unsure of yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't go around carrying a chip on your shoulder today, as it's sure to be knocked off. Weigh your words carefully and avoid criticizing others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You can be quite generous when dealing with friends, but today you're likely to be more of a taker than a giver.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to put your self-interest too far above the others today. Being only concerned about No. 1 will turn people off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a talent today for creating your own problems. Stop and think about the penalties associated with erratic actions.

Ann Landers

Shaving legs irritates her

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me why Americans are so hung up on hair? In Europe women do not shave their armpits or their legs and nobody gives a damn. In this country, if a woman has hair anywhere but on her head she is considered some sort of freak.

It so happens I am a brunet lady — and a hairy one at that. I shave my legs because society says I must. When I wear sleeveless dress, I also shave under my arms, which is a nuisance. Now my husband tells me if I want to go swimming with him this summer I must shave the tops of my legs, both front and back, from the knees up.

I resent this male chauvinism and told him I'd be happy to oblige, provided he shaves the tops of HIS legs also — front and back. His reply was, "You're nuts."

Am I? I tried shaving the tops of my legs four years ago and ended up with half a dozen ingrown hairs. Please settle this. — Hirsute Hanna From Urbana

Dear Hanna: If your legs are shaved from the knees down and you have an abundant growth from the knees up, you would be something of a conversation piece around the pool. Since shaving causes you to have ingrown hair, try a depilatory or a wax job. They take more time than shaving but the results last longer and you won't get cuts, infections or ingrown hairs.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm an 18-year-old girl who would like to say a few words to "Smothered in Topeka." Her folks "embarrassed" her in front of her friends because they insisted on kissing her goodbye whenever she left the house. She said it made her feel like a baby.

I can truthfully say I cannot recall being kissed by either my mother or father. Dad died when I was 13 and I can't remember him ever touching me. It was as if there was a wall between us.

When I mentioned this to my mother, she said, "He wasn't a person who could show his feelings." I then asked, "How about YOU, Mom?" Her answer was, "I guess I am pretty much the same way but that doesn't mean your father didn't love you — or that I don't."

Her explanation never convinced me. All I know is I felt isolated — starved for affection. It left a mark on me, a bad one. When I was 14, I started to sleep with any guy who asked. By the time I was 16 I was pregnant, lost the baby and a social worker (bless her) got me into therapy.

I understand a lot more now than I did then. But still there's that emptiness. When I marry and have children, I'm going to hug and kiss them to pieces. They'll KNOW I care. — Hazard, Ky.

Dear Ky: Here's your letter. It contains a ton of information for both children and parents. Thanks for unloading.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife hates housework and the place sure looks it. She says any idiot can clean a house, and she'd rather do something that requires brains. (Cooking is also for dummies, according to her.)

Whenever you print something about a sloppy housekeeper or a bum cook, I ask my wife if she read Ann Landers today. It burns her up. Yesterday it happened again. She said, "I'll bet Ann Landers doesn't do one lick of cooking or cleaning." I said I'd ask. How about it? — Mr. X

Dear Mr. X: She's right. But I did for quite a few years. And my place always looked fairly presentable and nobody ever died from my cooking. Any more questions?

Playing games with names

"What's in a name?" sighed fair Juliet. "That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

The dark-haired beauty of Verona had a valid point in her wistful observation, but modern psychologists have come to the conclusion that there is quite a lot in a name — Rose and Violet are two vastly different chicks.

"It's cruel for parents to give kids odd names," says Dr. Thomas V. Busse, professor of educational psychology at Temple University. "It's destructive to the child. That's why kids ought to be aware that they can change their names."

Busse made a study of 2,500 suburban school children and came up with some astounding conclusions: if your friends don't like your name they won't like you; if your teacher doesn't like your name, you may get automatic low marks. (Maybe that's why I flunked so often.)

Personally I have never paid much attention to the names of my friends. Jim, Jack, Eddie, Bill — it was the face and personality that made the difference. I'd delight in the friendship of a guy even if he was named Montmorency or Harrison or Cameron, if he had the traits and talents I found interesting. A genial soul who could chat entertainingly about Mozart and Deisel engines and Van Gogh and the Dodgers — what do I care if he's Tim or Charlie or Shadrach?

Busse found, among his 2,500 mopets, that the most popular names were John and David for the boys and Linda for girls. The young men (grades two through six) also liked Michael, Robert, Mark, Paul, Richard, Scott, Peter and James. They scorned such names as Stockton, Faber, Carlton, Daniel and Gardner. And with good reason, I might say. "Slide, Faber, slide!" It doesn't quite do it, some how.

Popular names with the young Ms. types were Carol, Barbara, Susan, Diane, Lynne, Anna, Donna, Tina and Sheila. The girls turned up their noses at Rosemunde, Lola May, Phoebe and Towanda — and quite rightly. With a date like the latter, a guy couldn't be sure if he was calling his date or his dog.

Busse says a first name is part of a person's individuality, like his hair and the color of his eyes, his height and ethnic background. A skinny Bill with glasses has it made; a handsome, muscular Algernon is dead from the start, with his classmates, girl friends and teachers.

The names parents choose are, of course, affected by the climate of the times and the dominant personalities. Lots of boys ended up named Harry when Truman was at the height of his popularity. There are millions of girls named Julie ("The Sound of Music") and Barbara ("Hello, Dolly!"). I'm waiting to meet the first kid called Godzilla.

The rising crop of young 'uns will be named Pete (for Pete Rose, if the Reds repeat) or Joe (for Namath) or Olga (Korbut) or Barbara (Hamill).

Dr. Thomas V. Busse is very knowledgeable about names, but he doesn't do much talking about his middle name.

The V is for Valentine.

Moldy hay can harm lungs

DEAR DR. LAMB — I contracted farmer's lung by inhaling moldy hay, feeding our pet rabbits. I am going through a bad experience with coughing and spitting constantly. I am under a doctor's care — taking medications for the coughing spells and for my throat inflammation that I suffered. The doctor told me I have an allergy to moldy hay and this disease will take some time to go away. I am still spitting watery and foamy material more than five weeks after I inhaled this moldy hay.

Can you tell me more about this farmer's lung? Is there a possibility to get shots if this is an allergy? I hope you can help me with more information.

DEAR READER — Yes it is an allergy. It is caused by the spores of fungi. The spores are inhaled and when enough of them reach the tiny air sacs, the alveoli, in the lungs they sensitize the lung membrane. The next time you are exposed to more of the spores you have an allergic response of the lung tissues. They swell and are inflamed. Obviously they are not much good then for exchanging oxygen and carbon dioxide.

The inflammation results in formation of excess secretions that must be removed from the lungs, hence the coughing spells. The amount of sputum produced is usually limited.

The disease can lead to fibrosis and scarring of the lung tissues, causing permanent lung damage. If you have just one attack you usually recover completely with no important residual lung damage.

The fungi spores that cause similar illnesses are also in the filters of air conditioners. So this is a warning to my readers to be sure and change their air conditioner filters regularly and keep the system clean. Similar infections from fungi spores result in fungi from bird droppings, called bird-breeder's lung. There is a whole series of these called, maplebark-stripper's lung, mushroom worker's lung and in sugar cane workers, bagassosis.

The illness causes fever, chills,

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Oswald: "Starting in 1975, New York's Cavendish Club runs an invitation tournament for the benefit of the Children's cancer fund. Jim Jacoby won it last year with Jeff Westheimer. This year it was won by Allen Sontag and Peter Weischel, one of the best young pairs today."

Jim: "I was unable to play this year, but judging by the way Peter and Allen played, I doubt very much if we could have repeated."

Oswald: "Allen and Peter gained a lot of points when an opponent's attempt to fix them backfired. East's one notrump was pure whimsy and gave Peter a chance to bid two hearts. Allen tried a three-club cue bid. Peter jumped to four hearts and Allen bid six."

Jim: "There wasn't any real problem in the play. Peter drew trumps and attacked spades by cashing dummy's ace and his own queen. When East showed out (obviously East's notrump had been pure whimsy), Peter was able to finesse against West's jack. He had to lose a club at the end, but he could afford it."

Only thing the bank computer reads on the bottom of the deposit slip is that magnetically coded number of the account. Knowing this, another bright boy has distributed his own personal deposit slips throughout the bank racks, this time in Washington, D.C. Swift customers didn't pay much attention. They snatched up this fellow's slips instead of the bank's and channeled more than $25,000 into the old boy's account. I do not know the nature of the charges eventually filed against him, but it should be noted that he, too, now resides in the penitentiary.

Celtics bring home another crown

PHOENIX (AP) — The Boston Celtics admittedly are not a great team, but they are the 1976 National Basketball Association champions.

The grim, determined Celtics, winners of more league championships than any team in the 30-year history of the NBA, captured their 13th title in the past 20 years Monday, downing the Phoenix Suns 87-80.

Coach Tom Heinsohn, drenched with perspiration and champagne in the joyous Celtics lockerroom, called it a "total team effort, a fantastic job."

"We gutted it out all season," added Heinsohn, savoring his 10th championship—eight as a player and two as a coach—with the Celtics.

"We had trouble all season offensively because of the makeup of our team," said Heinsohn, referring to Boston's age and lack of depth. In the final series against the longshot Suns, Boston's running game—so often a vital cog in the past—was missing to a great extent because of a painful foot injury to captain John Havlicek.

So Boston was forced to change its offensive game somewhat and design its defense to cope with the Sun's slowdown, pattern style of play.

And perhaps because of their experience, the Celtics were able to adjust and overcome the upstart Suns, who had begun the 10-team playoffs as the longest shot in the field of 10 but had finessed their way to the final round with upset victories over Seattle and Golden State.

The Celtics won the first two games of the series at Boston Garden and there was much talk of a possible four-game sweep in the best-of-seven nationally televised series, which began back on May 23.

But the Suns bounced back with two great victories at home. Those games were followed by the historic fifth game at Boston, where the Celtics outlasted the Suns 128-126 in a record three overtimes.

It was a game which figured to take a heavy toll on the older Celtics, whose roster includes Havlicek and Don Nelson, both 36, and Paul Silas, 32. Instead, it was the Suns who wilted.

They scored only 33 points in the first half Sunday, including just 13 in the second quarter, and fell behind 38-33. They were down 46-35 early in the third period, rallied to go ahead briefly 67-66 with 7:25 remaining in the game but faded in the stretch as Boston's wily veterans, led by Havlicek, Dave Cowens, Jo Jo White and Charlie Scott, took charge.

That foursome combined for Boston's last 23 points—seven by Cowens, six by Havlicek, and five each by White and Scott.

Scott climaxed his first season with the Celtics after three full years with Phoenix with 25 points, 11 rebounds, five steals and three assists. Cowens had 21 points and 17 rebounds; White, voted the most valuable player in the playoffs, finished with 15 points for a team-high total of 130 in the series, and Havlicek had 10 points and became the third-leading scorer in NBA playoff history with 3,611.

Alvan Adams, the NBA's Rookie of the Year, paced the Suns with 20 points and wound up with a series-high 138. Ricky Sobers, Phoenix' other starting rookie, scored 19, and Paul Westphal, the player traded for Scott a year ago, had 14.

For the often-maligned Scott, his performance in the final game had to be a great feeling of retribution against the team that had traded him because of his reputation as an individualist rather than a team player. However, he played down that angle.

"I just wanted to win the title," he said. "I didn't care who it was against."

Then he added, "The sixth game must be my thing."

In the clinching sixth games of Boston's previous playoff series—against Buffalo and Cleveland—he also had been outstanding, scoring 31 points against the Braves and making the key steal and basket against the Cavaliers.

This was the first game in this series in which Scott did not foul out.

"I knew that if Charlie could stay in the game and not let his emotions get the best of him, we would be alright," said Havlicek as he posed holding a bottle of champagne over the $25,000 Walter A. Brown Championship Trophy, presented to the winning team.

"The younger guys really carried us," added Havlicek, who has said he will play one more season before retiring. "It's really a tribute to them."

"I still don't believe it's over," White said of the lengthy series. "I'm happy that it finally ended."

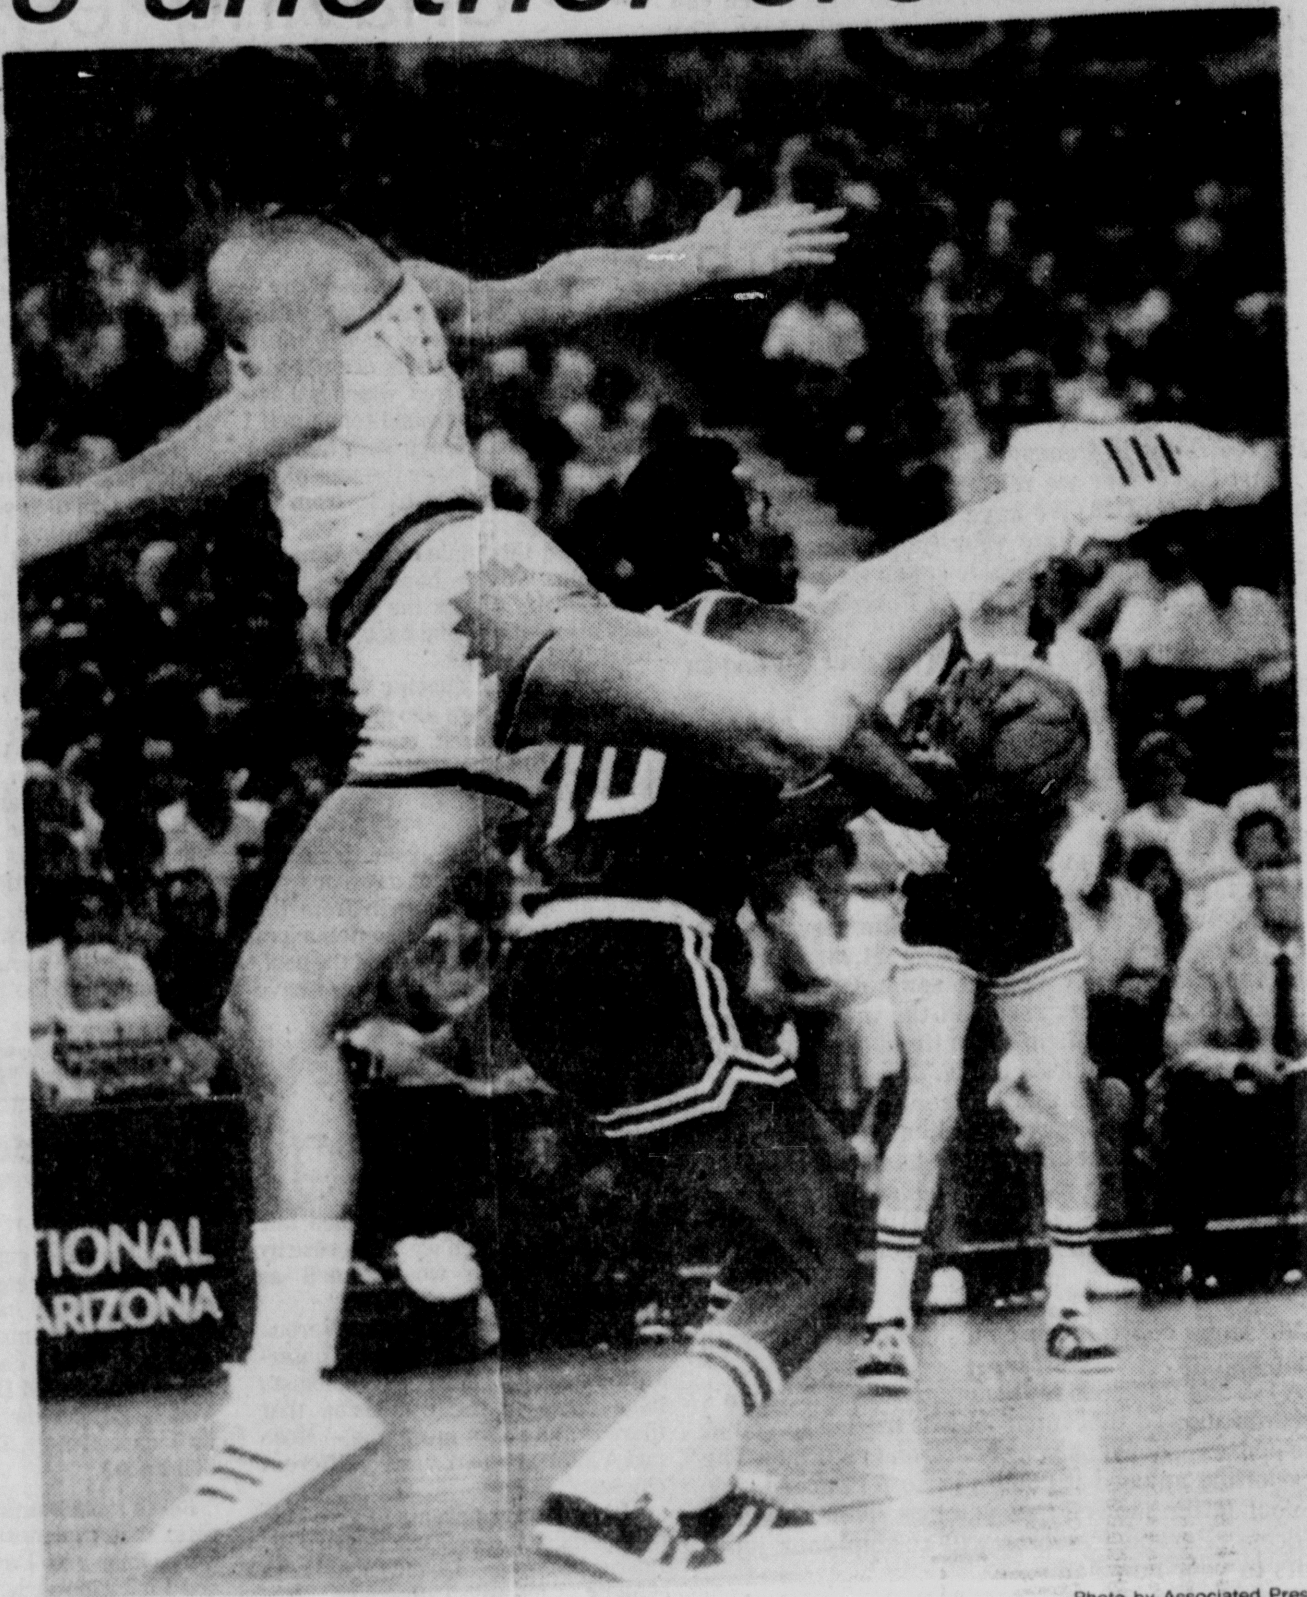

"The first time you win is unique," said Cowens, a member of Boston's last championship team in 1974. "But when you win it once, you want to do it again because you know what it's like."

"We were flat," admitted a disappointed Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "They (the Celtics) did a good job defensively, they drove us out of our patterns and they were very strong under the offensive boards."

MacLeod, proud of his young team in defeat, also explained that the Celtics disrupted the Suns' passing lanes by bringing Cowens out higher on Adams and that Phoenix did too much dribbling.

"When you do a lot of dribbling," he said, "you're running to the ball—you're not going to the basket. We didn't go to the basket enough. One time I remember we had five players on one side of the court, and that indicates some confusion."

"But this club never gave up, it never gave up all season."

Broncos erupt in 12-1 victory

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Cal Poly will attempt to keep its NCAA Division II title hopes alive tonight as the Broncos are scheduled to meet defending champion Florida Southern here at 6 p.m. (PDT).

Poly stayed alive in the double-elimination tourney Sunday by shelling Sacred Heart University, 12-1. That result ousted the Connecticut school from the tourney.

Florida Southern downed Southeast Missouri, 5-3, Sunday to set up the contest tonight with the Broncos. Both Poly and Florida Southern stand at 1-1 in tourney action. The Broncos are now 37-27-1 on the year while the Moccasins are 31-31-12.

Southern Illinois (Edwardsville) became the only unbeaten team in the playoff by routing Livingston University, 11-4, Sunday night. SIU thus earned a bye in today's action.

The other game on tap today has Southeast Missouri meeting Livingston at 3:30 p.m. (PDT). Only three teams will remain alive after today's contests.

Poly simply was awesome Sunday against an overmatched Sacred Heart squad. The Broncos ripped 21 hits off of five Pioneer pitchers, including Alex Torres and Ken Hellyer's second home runs of the tourney.

Hellyer banged out four hits again Sunday, giving him eight hits in 10 at bats in the two playoff games. He accounted for three RBIs Sunday, two of those on a long home run to right in the first inning.

That circuit clout gave the Broncos a 2-0 lead, and that was all hurlers Mike Regus and Chuck Belk needed in subduing the Pioneers on six hits.

"This win was a real shot in the arm for us," Poly skipper John Scolinos noted. "We played like we are capable of playing. I just wish we had looked this good in our opener with Livingston."

"Regus and Belk did outstanding jobs. We thought about going with Tom Rosenstein instead of Regus against Sacred Heart, but after mulling it over I'd decided to stay with the same pitching rotation which got us this far."

Regus made only 89 pitches in seven innings, and Scolinos plans to use him in relief, along with Bruce MacPherson, if needed tonight.

Regus surrendered only four hits (two of them missed judged flyballs) in seven innings, fanning four and walking three. Belk finished up two scoreless relief frames in only his eighth mound appearance of the year for Poly.

Sacred Heart starter Paul Marciniak entered the game with a perfect 8-0 season record. But the Broncos touched him up for three runs on six hits in the first three innings.

Pioneer southpaw Bob O'Meara came on in the last of the fourth but three singles and Clay Harris' booming triple to center resulted in three quick runs as Poly broke open a 3-1 contest.

Dale Biggs' triple and Lon Brucegard's single made it 7-1, in the fifth, and one-baggers by Dennis Sherow, Hellyer and Kevin Jenkins pushed Poly's lead to 8-1 in the sixth.

Four more scores off the Pioneers' Gary Matosian put the game on ice for the Broncos in the seventh. Monty Cloward doubled in Steve Thompson for the first run of the frame, and Torres followed with a home run over the left-field fence.

A walk to Harris and singles by Hellyer and Jenkins pushed across the 12th and final Bronco tally later in the inning.

Torres and Jenkins had three hits in the easy win, and Sherow scored three times.

Stones says he'll be a monster

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Brash high jumper Dwight Stones stood 7 feet, 7 inches tall today.

And he says that two apples a day that didn't keep the doctor away helped him get those lucky sevens.

The 22-year-old Stones leaped 7 feet, 7 inches Saturday at the 55th annual NCAA Track and Field Championships to better the world record of 7-6½ he set in 1973.

The handsome blond Long Beach State senior actually put his feet where his mouth is. He had boldly predicted that he would set a world record at the three-day collegiate meet.

Actually, Stones has been chasing the new world mark for 35 months. He finally got it on his 64th attempt at the magic 7-7 height.

But back to those apples and the doctor.

"All I had to eat today was two apples," he said Saturday after his record-getting feat. "I eat a lot of lean meats and fruits. It's done wonders for my energy. I'm really feeling stronger all the time."

Then, the supremely confident Stones sounded a warning for the Olympic Games in Montreal next month.

"This is the first year that I've had my body together," he said. "I know I'm going to be a monster in the next couple of years."

Stones gave all the credit for his physical condition to Dr. Leroy Perry, a Pasadena, Calif., chiropractor he first met at a high jumping clinic in Corvallis, Ore., in 1975.

"I met him again in Paris a month later after I had pulled a muscle," Stones said. "He didn't even touch me. He just looked at me and asked, 'Do you know that your right hip is lower than your left?'"

Stones said Dr. Perry worked on him 20 minutes at a time, and within 10 days to two weeks had the athlete jumping for world records again.

"I have an underdeveloped disc in my back, and as a result my right hip falls down and forward three-quarters of an inch off," Stones said. "Also, I had a case of jet lag. I wasn't eating properly. I didn't even have enough energy to cook my own food. I lost 14 pounds."

Stones said Dr. Perry set him straight, taught him pressure points to alleviate pain and worked on emotional points to lessen stress. He said the chiropractor put him in the best shape of his life.

Before Stones set his record, there were five other marks recorded (four Saturday), and Southern California won its 23rd NCAA team title, its first since 1968, with 64 points. Defending champion Texas-El Paso finished second with 44.

followed by Tennessee (40), Washington State (34½) and Arizona State (31).

The other meet records were: Villanova's Eamonn Coghlan in the 1,500, clocked in 3 minutes, 37.01 seconds, breaking the mark of 3:39.7 set by Dave Wottle of Bowling Green in 1972.

Quentin Wheeler of San Diego State in the 400-meter hurdles, timed in 48.55, breaking the meet and national collegiate mark of 48.8 by Brigham Young's Ralph Mann in 1970. Wheeler's time was the best this year in the world for this event.

Texas El Paso's James Munyala, a Kenyan, in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, clocked in 8:24.86, breaking the mark of 8:28.1 by Tennessee's Doug Brown in 1973.

Arkansas State's Earl Bell over the pole vault bar at 18 feet, 1¼ inches, better than the 18-1 that he and San Jose State's Dan Ripley set last year. Bell, who set a world mark of 18-7¼ a week ago, tried 18-8 Saturday but failed on three attempts.

The only double winner was Auburn's freshman sprint sensation, Harvey Glance, winner of the 100-meter dash in 10.16, and the 200 in 20.74. That gave him three NCAA titles for the year, including the indoor 60 last month at Detroit.

Stones, who set his ninth world record and went over 7-5 for the 19th time, defeated Mike Winsor, a freshman from Central Michigan, who went to 7-5 with the champion, then missed three times at 7-7. Ironically, Winsor was helped Friday at a clinic on high jumping given by Stones.

In discussing the Olympic Games, Stones said he didn't expect to set a world mark at Montreal, which was why he wanted it so badly at the NCAAs.

He described the Olympic high jump as a drag, saying the 5½ hours it took was too long for jumpers to keep muscles loose. He said he planned to go to Montreal, work out, then return home and go back to Canada right before his event.

Sutton is under strain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Sutton says he has no regrets about his vetoing a proposed trade between Los Angeles and the New York Mets but does concede he has been pitching under a mental strain recently.

"It's there," he says, "but it's my business what it is, no one else's. I just want to pitch and be left alone. My personal life is just that, personal, unless it affects my performance and then there are 24 other guys who I'd owe an answer to."

The Los Angeles right-hander, who turned down a deal that would have landed him in New York along with former teammate Jerry Royster for the Mets' Jon Matlack, ended a personal three-game losing streak Sunday by beating the Mets 10-3 with the support of a 15-hit attack that included three runs batted in by Bill Russell and Steve Garvey.

The victory put Los Angeles two games back of Cincinnati in the National League West.

Sutton was reported to have turned down a trade to the Mets last winter, which is his right as a 10-year man in the majors and the last five years with the same club.

"No, I don't want to go to the New York Mets," he said after his fifth win in 11 decisions, "and it has nothing to do with the town. There are great fans there, maybe the best in the country, but if I'm going anywhere I'd rather go to the American League."

Sutton's start Sunday was his first since he broke a mirror in the clubhouse after getting blasted for six runs on 10 hits by the Giants last week.

"Yes, there is something eating at me but I'm not at liberty to say what it is," he said, refusing to go into detail.

Sutton certainly couldn't complain about his support Sunday.

The Dodgers jumped on Jerry Koosman for six runs the first three innings, added two more in the fourth and single runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

The only runs Sutton allowed were on a two-run homer by John Milner in the third and a walk with the bases loaded to pinch hitter Joe Torre in the ninth.

Angels are victim of Pole's success

BOSTON (AP) — Right-hander Dick Pole of the Boston Red Sox went back to the films of a horrible experience to find out what he was doing wrong. He thinks he found his answer.

Searching for a cure to his pitching problems, Pole disclosed Sunday he watched films 24 hours earlier of a game he pitched against Baltimore last June 30, when he was throwing a shutout in the ninth inning against the Orioles in the ninth inning.

The 25-year-old hurler tried to put out of his mind that was when his career was nearly ended. Tony Muser lined a shot back to the mound. The ball struck Pole in the face, fracturing his cheekbone and nearly blinding him.

"I was really pitching well at that time, breaking into the starting rotation," Pole said. "I try to forget being hit by that ball, and I did while watching the film. I saw that now I was doing something wrong."

Pole corrected what he thought was his mistake this year and threw seven shutout innings against the California Angels, earning his second victory, against three losses, with relief help from Reggie Cleveland as the Red Sox posted a 41 victory before 26,003 fans at Fenway Park.

"After three bad games, it all came together for me today," Pole said. "As for the films, when you're going terrible you try anything. I noticed I wasn't striding on my follow through, falling almost a foot short. I was almost pitching straight up, like my arm and my body weren't connected. That caused wildness."

Pole allowed just six hits, struck out five and didn't walk a batter until he tired "after throwing 119 pitches,

The win was Los Angeles' 18th in 24 games against Eastern Division clubs and its 18th in 26 games at home.

For Russell, now hitting .305, he has already surpassed his entire 1975 output of RBI and in 43 games the Dodger shortstop has committed just five errors.

"I'm playing much more relaxed and with more confidence," said Russell. "I can't compare this year with 1975 because I was hurt all of last year and, anyway, those aren't very good numbers to shoot at."

DODGER DATA — Pitching matchups for the four games with the Phillies will be Rick Rhoden (4-0) vs. Ron Reed (4-1) tonight, Tommy John (2-3) vs. Larry Christianson (6-2) Tuesday, Burt Hooton (4-5) vs. Jim Lonborg (8-1) Wednesday and Doug Rau (5-3) vs. Steve Carlton (5-3) Thursday.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Angels sold catcher Ed Herrmann to the Houston Astros Sunday for an undisclosed sum.

Tom Seeborg, Angels spokesman, said Herrmann will join the Astros immediately. The Angels will fill the vacancy on their roster prior to their game in New York Tuesday, he said.

Herrmann, 29, hit 174 with two home runs and had eight RBIs in 29 games with the Angels.

Sports briefs    Plummer, Paciorek have big days

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — Pat Bradley, who never won a tournament in three years on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, sank a 2½-foot putt on the second hole of sudden death playoff to defeat Judy Rankin in a $76,000 LPGA Classic Sunday.

Miss Bradley and Miss Rankin, along with Bonnie Lauer and Sandra Post, each finished the regulation three-day 54-hole tournament with 217.

Miss Rankin and Miss Bradley both sank short putts on the 10th hole, used for the opening of the sudden-death playoff, for birdie fours.

Miss Bradley's putt was 18 inches, Miss Rankin's three feet. Miss Lauer was six feet above the pin and missed, while Miss Post failed on a 20-footer.

On the second extra hole, Miss Bradley, 25, was off the green, chipped up and converted her putt for the first prize of $14,000.

Miss Rankin, who wound up on the fringe, putted up and blew the four-footer that left her sharing second, third and fourth-place money with Miss Lauer and Miss Post. Each collects $5,933.33. Miss Rankin entered the tourney with $66,841.66 as the No. 1 money earner.

It was Miss Bradley's first tour triumph—a victory in the Far East Classic last December in Melbourne, Australia is not officially recognized by the LPGA.

LOUISVILLE (AP) — American Basketball Association President John Y. Brown Jr. said he planned to tell ABA team owners today that the National Basketball Association's $4.5 million price for NBA berths for ABA clubs is far too high.

The price is a holdup and negotiating it was irrational, Brown said before leaving for the owners' meetings Sunday and today in Chicago.

He had harsh words for some team owners and said their "irresponsible" actions have prompted him and his wife, Ellie, majority stockholder in the Kentucky Colonels, to get out of the professional basketball business.

But Brown said he is still "interested in doing whatever is necessary to keep the (Colonels) franchise going."

Brown said the price of joining the NBA went so high because two ABA teams—New York and Denver—"became desperate to get into the NBA at any price."

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — American Dick Siderow defeated John Davies of England on the first hole of sudden-death overtime to win his second British Amateur Golf title in four years.

MANCHESTER, England — Roscoe Tanner defeated Australian Paul McNamee 6-3, 8-9, 12-10 to capture the Northern Tennis Tournament.

PARIS — Arthur Ashe defeated Germany's Jurgen Fassbender 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 in the French Open Tennis Tournament.

By Associated Press

There had been plenty of time on the bench for Cincinnati catcher Bill Plummer and Atlanta outfielder Tom Paciorek to think about having big days at the plate, winning baseball games for teams that seemingly had forgotten them.

Sunday, each made the best of his chances.

Plummer, in the lineup only 19 times in the Reds' first 51 games this National League season, paced Cincinnati's 13-2 rout of St. Louis by driving in seven runs with a home run, a triple and a single.

Paciorek, who had watched all but 26 of the Braves' first 49 contests, cracked his first homer of the year and added a triple and single in Atlanta's 148 rout of Montreal.

"It was a dream day for an extra man," said Plummer, a catcher who got his chance to play when Manager Sparky Anderson gave a rest to Reds regular Johnny Bench. "I can't remember ever having a day like this, unless it was in Little League."

The three hits gave Plummer 18 for the season while the seven RBI more than doubled his total and gave him 12 for the campaign.

"I'm not going to hit .300, but I'm not going to embarrass myself, either," said Plummer, who now is hitting .305.

Paciorek, with the three hits and two walks in his five times at bat against the Expos, said, "This is the first time I have ever done this since the minor leagues."

"I'm glad to know I can still play baseball. When you're sitting on the bench so long, you still know you can do it, but it still has to make you a little apprehensive about your abilities."

There was little question about those abilities Sunday. Two forgotten men came through in a very big way.

In the other NL games, Philadelphia belted San Francisco 9-3; Houston swept Chicago with a 2-0 decision in the opener and a 5-1 victory in the nightcap; Los Angeles clubbed New York 10-3, and San Diego topped Pittsburgh 6-1.

Paciorek's two-run homer capped a four-run sixth inning and Rowland Office's three-run shot keyed a four-run eighth as Atlanta shelled Montreal.

The Braves trailed 6-5 going into the sixth but a single by Office, a sacrifice, a walk to Jimmy Wynn and Ken Henderson's hit tied the score and it was all Atlanta from there on.

Montreal right fielder Gary Carter was lost to the club for six to eight weeks with a fractured left thumb suffered in a head-on collision with Pepe Mangual in the first inning.

Plummer spearheaded a 17th attack to power Cincinnati past St. Louis. The 29-year-old backstop, a six-year veteran, had a bases-loaded triple, a three-run homer and an RBI single.

Padres 6, Pirates 1

Ted Kubiak's two-run, sixthinning single backed Brent Strom's seven-hitter as San Diego beat Pittsburgh before an all-time record crowd of 51,726 on jacket day.

Strom gave up the Pirate run in the fourth inning, while John Candelaria, 4-4, was charged with all six San Diego runs, two of them unearned.

Phillies 9, Giants 3

Philadelphia left-hander Jim Kaat cracked two doubles and a single and drove in three runs as the Phillies—held to one-hit through six innings—came back with five runs in the seventh and four in the eighth to swamp San Francisco.

John Montefusco, 6-5, had allowed only an opposite-field double by Kaat, 4-2, in the third until the uprising.

Marc Hill cracked a home run for the Giants in the seventh.

Astros 2-5, Cubs 0-1

Run-scoring singles by Rob Andrews and Jerry Davanon paced a four-run first inning to give Houston its second-game victory. Houston rookie Joaquin Andujar, who had two-hit Cincinnati in his last start, hurled his second straight two-hitter in the opener.

The sweep extended Houston's winning streak to five. The Astros have won nine of their last 11 games.

Rangers 16, Tigers 6

Tom Grieve and Juan Beniquez drove in three runs each as Texas pulled to within 2½ games of first-place Kansas City in AL West. The Rangers collected 16 base hits and wrapped it up with seven runs in the fifth inning, which included Bill Fahey's two-run single and Lenny Randle's two-run double. Nelson Briles, 5-2, beat Joe Coleman, 2-5.

A's 3-2, Yanks 2-5

Vida Blue, 6-5, got clutch relief pitching from Rolie Fingers to subdue New York in the opener. Claudell Washington singled in one run for Oakland and Phil Garner singled in the other two.

The Yanks rallied for four runs in the ninth to take the nightcap, the final three when Oscar Gamble belted a two-out homer off Fingers. Dave Pagan, 1-0, was the winner, tossing a six-hitter as New York snapped a four-game losing streak.

Brewers 4, Royals 3

Sixto Lezcano's run-scoring single in the 14th inning gave Milwaukee only its second victory in the last nine games. Jerry Augustine, 1-1, was the winner and Marty Pattin, 1-6, the loser. Each team scored in the 11th to prolong the contest. Milwaukee on Von Joshua's single and Kansas City on a single by Hal McRae.

Twins 3-1, Orioles 2-6

Dan Ford's ninth-inning homer gave Minnesota its firstgame victory, enabling Bill Singer, 5-1, to make a successful debut with the Twins. Left fielder Al Bumbry actually had Ford's hit in his glove but lost it when the glove hit the fence.

Ford drove in four runs and Larry Hise clubbed a three-run homer in the nightcap. Rod Carew collected five hits and four RBI for the twinbill and Oriole mainstays Jim Palmer, 6-6, and Mike Cuellar, 2-6, were the losers. Cuellar has started 11 games this season and has yet to finish one.

White Sox 3-5, Indians 2-0

Nyls Nyman and Jack Brohamer doubled home a run each and Jim Essian got the decisive run home with a fourth-inning single in the first game for Chicago. Pete Vuckovich, 4-1, bested Jackie Brown, 5-2.

Ken Brett, 3-0, and Jessie Jefferson teamed for a threehitter in the nightcap and Buddy Bradford hit a home run. Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson and coaches Rocky Colavito and Jeff Torborg were all tossed out of the game for arguing too vigorously over a bunt that was ruled foul.

Southwest sweeps two

Pomona Southwest shocked Pomona American - Bill's Tree Service Sunday afternoon twice as they swept a doubleheader 4-3 and 2-1 in nine innings.

Chino Hills split a twinbill with Ontario North, winning the nightcap 8-3. Chino Hills won the opener, 9-5.

The twinbill sweep for Pomona Southwest improves its record to 2-6. Bill's Tree Service saw its season record drop to 2-4.

In the opener, Mike Ramos went the distance for Southwest picking up his first victory. He held Bill's Tree Service to three runs on nine hits. Ramos fanned six and allowed only one base on balls. The lone walk allowed by Ramos came with two out in the seventh inning with two away.

Southwest entered the seventh inning trailing Bill's Tree Service by a score of 3-1. But Southwest pushed around three runs in the final inning to take the contest.

Dave Rondero led off the inning with a pop fly double which fell in between the leftfielder and the shortstop. Rondero advanced to third when the first baseman failed to field the ball. Dan Dioses immediately drove a two-bagger into the rightfield corner scoring both Rondero and Ramos.

Lee Maxwell went in to run for Dioses at second and advanced to third on a grounder off the bat of Lou Cerda. Maxwell scored as he was wiped home on an errant pickoff attempt.

Bill's Tree Service had taken an early 3-1 lead as they scored twice in the second and added one more tally in the fourth frame. Bill's Tree Service's attack was paced by Ken Gendreau who knocked out three hits in four at bats. A fourth hit was taken away by the Southwest second baseman.

Dave Rondero completed the sweep for Southwest as he fired a three-hitter in stopping Bill's Tree Service. Rondero also picked up his first win as he fanned nine while walking six men. Rondero was tough as Bill's Tree Service was never really in the ballgame as they're lone run scored on a dropped fly ball.

Chino Hills fell a half game behind front running Montclair (8-2) as their record fell to 8-3 with the doubleheader split with Ontario North.

In the opener, Chino Hills scored six times in the second frame to take a commanding 6-1 lead. They coasted into their eighth victory. Mark White picked up the win as he fanned six Ontario batters while walking five.

Chino Hills added three more runs in the fourth to lead 9-1. Four Ontario errors also helped Chino as they only knocked out a total of six hits. White had the only extra base hit, a triple in the fourth inning.

Ontario North rebounded to take the night cap as Chino Hills defense fell apart. Chino was charged with six errors as they set up two of the first four scored in the opening frame.

Ontario put together four runs on three Chino errors, a walk and a single. Chino bounced back with three runs in the fifth inning but Ontario's Mario Ruiz was able to put out the fire. Ruiz went the distance in holding Chino to three runs on nine hits.

IF WE WERE GAMBLING WITH ONLY OUR OWN LIVES . . .

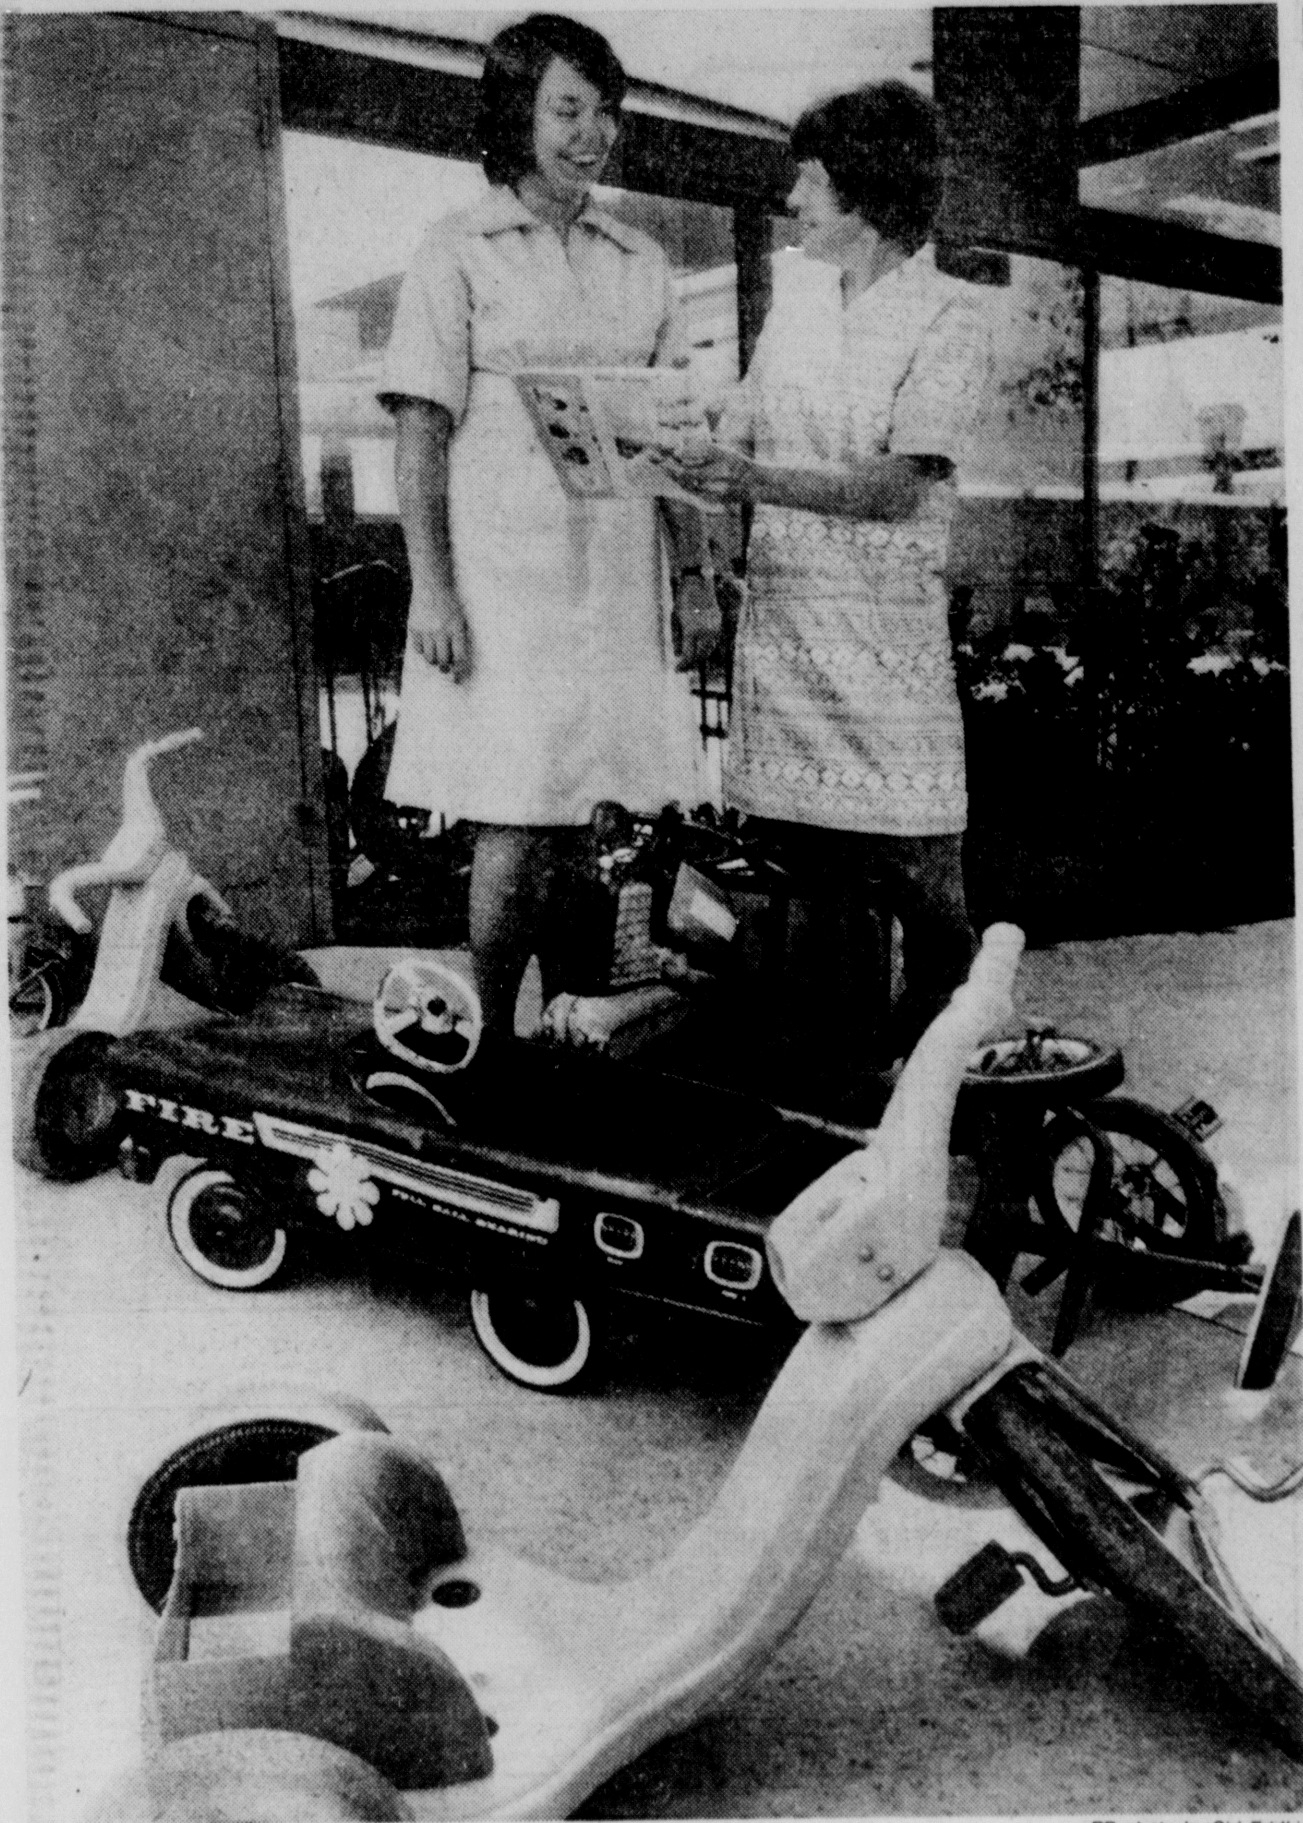

Doctors tell us we may be threatening the future of all life. Scientists say that there are awesome risks. We must be sure.

Atomic power must be proven safe. It is morally wrong to plan hundreds of more atomic plants until we know for sure that they are safe and that dangerous radioactive wastes can be safely handled.

Your yes vote on Proposition 15 can make that happen. For your children—for the children of all future generations—please vote "Yes" on 15.

Nuclear Safety
Yes on 15

toys as they study catalog to select new toys to be purchased by mothers group. The club has donated $500 to the local center and a similar sum to the Sick Baby Fund at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Birthday luncheon planned

The Walnut Valley Christian Women's Club will hold its second birthday luncheon Wednesday at 11 a.m. at Pomona National Golf Course.

Joyce Landorf will be speaker and soloist. She is a local recording artist and author. Her latest books include "Mourning Song" and "Tough and Tender."

Lonnie Higgins will demonstrate cake decorating. She is affiliated with Bet's Cake Decorating Supplies, Pomona.

Nursery care is available without charge at the Diamond Bar Friends Church, 12015 Brea Canyon Road, Walnut. Reservations are necessary and each child should have a sack lunch.

Reservations may be made by calling Sandy Boothe, 595-0207.

Joyce Brothers

Discipline or authority

DEAR DR. BROTH-ERS: When we visited with my brother and his family my wife and I were impressed with how his children obey. Ours aren't nearly as disciplined though we've tried everything except physical punishment, which neither of us believes in. Now we're beginning to wonder if we're wrong. My brother served a long term in the army and he has carried over his rigid, military discipline to his family. It seems to have paid off. — O.B.

Dear O.B.: You and your wife were seeing your brother's children under special circumstances. I think if you could see them in another four or five years the picture might be quite different.

While children need discipline, almost all studies indicate that corporal punishment is damaging to the child and to the parent-child relationship. It may promote obedience for the moment but it certainly doesn't promote the understanding needed in any long-term relationship. The child naturally resents the humiliation and this often leads to a lasting hatred of the parent.

Tough, authoritarian discipline causes children to rebel and retaliate because the parent always has to win any conflict. Usually the child finally "fires" his parents by running away, not physically in the sense that he leaves the house, but by withdrawing and running away psychologically so that he shares nothing of his real self with his family.

Soft, permissive parents go too far in the other direction. They allow their children to become inconsiderate, selfish and unmanageable. Then, the parents may become resentful because the children have to win every argument.

There is a happy medium with both parents and children maintaining self-respect so that each can talk out feelings with the other.

A child needs to learn to make choices. In a militaristic home where all his choices are made for him, he never has a chance to explore on his own.

DEAR DR. BROTH-ERS: My parents ridicule me because I let my wife handle the money. My father and my brother somehow think I'm giving up my masculinity. This amuses me because my brother is having a hard time with his third wife while there's relative harmony in my home. I know my brother always argued over money. My wife is better with the budget than I am and she minored in economics in college. Should I let my brother in on the secret of my success? — N.T.

Dear N.T.: You might try, but it probably wouldn't work. You seem to be quite secure otherwise you might feel threatened by family criticism and you wouldn't be able to admit that your wife is more capable as the family banker.

It doesn't matter who controls the money as long as the person who does is realistic about the cost of necessities and as long as both husband and wife feel free to express feelings about problems that may arise about income and expenses.

Married couples argue more frequently and more bitterly over money than over anything else. The big factor is not how much money there is, but how well husband and wife agree on how it is to be spent. It's important that goals be discussed and agreed upon if the budget-planning is to work to everyone's satisfaction.

Whatever you're doing, if you and your wife have no money problems, you're lucky. Obviously, you've worked this out well.

Tomorrow: Her son shows no feeling over Dad's death.

Friend's "vanity" is source of annoyance.

Progress Bulletin Family

25th anniversary observed by couple

Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Telles of Pomona were recently honored on their 25th wedding anniversary at a dinner-dance given by their family.

Two hundred guests attended the reception at Henri's following the couple's repeating of their marriage vows at St. Madeleine Catholic Church in Pomona.

Among the guests were Mrs. Bertha Gaydon, who had been the couple's bridesmaid, and Eddie Sepata, who had served as best man.

The couple have two living children, Kathy Telles, Dennis Telles and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Sammy Telles Jr. There is one grandchild.

The Telles were married April 21, 1951, in Pomona. Both have lived in the Pomona Valley for 35 years.

Mr. Telles is employed by General Dynamics and both are members of St. Madeleine Church.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT IS AN AUROCHE?"

A. AN AURROCHS IS AN EXTINCT WILD
OX OF EUROPE
FROM WHICH MANY BREEDS OF DOMESTIC CATTLE ARE DESCENDED

The aurochs (pronounced ow roks) is an extinct wild ox that once roamed the forests of Europe.

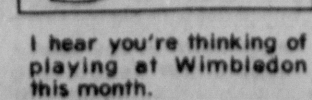

This enormous, black-colored animal from which our domestic cattle are descended often measured six feet high at the shoulders and had long, forward-curving horns. Prehistoric men of Europe hunted and ate this giant ox.

Cave paintings from

Since the extinction of the true aurochs, the name "aurochs" has sometimes been wrongly applied to the only other wild ox of Europe, the European bison, or wisent (a cousin to the American bison), which survives. Another name for the aurochs is "urus."

A World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
